VOTERS OF ESQUIMALT POLL WELL

Seventy-Nine Per Cent of Electors in Neighboring Riding Exercised Franchise at Recent Vote

FULL FIGURES FOR COWICHAN

In North Vancouver Mr. Loutet Gains on Absentee Ballots, Opponent Having Net Majority of 34

The official count for Esquimalt riding in the recent provincial election gives Mr. R. H. Pooly a majority of 727 over Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, the Liberal candidate. Mr. Pooly had also a very decided majority over all, as the total vote of the Independent Liberal candidate, Mr. P. R. Carlow, was only 25 all told, so that Mr. Pooly, the Conservative candidate in the riding, had a plurality of 702 votes over all comers.

The official count was concluded yesterday afternoon by Mr. Henry Hearn, the returning officer of the district. The final figures, including the whole of the absentee vote, showed that 3,028 ballots were cast on election day. The total number of names on the list of voters was 3,828, so that the proportion of voters who used the ballots was very high. There were only 800 voters whose names were on the Esquimalt list who did not exercise the franchise.

CONDITIONS IN WEST DECLARED EXCELLENT

VANCOUVER, Aug. 11.—Splendid conditions throughout the West are noted by Mr. C. McPherson, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Winnipeg, who is in Vancouver today. The crop outlook at present is exceptionally good, said Mr. McPherson, and this is adding to the optimism of the West.

Mr. McPherson remarked upon the large flow of tourist traffic over the Canadian Pacific Railway from the southeastern and middle states, particularly during the latter part of July and the early part of this month. Favorable publicity given to the annual Highland gathering in Banff last year is also attracting large numbers of Eastern and Prairie people to the mountains, he said, and many of those tourists will also visit the British Columbia coast.

Mr. McPherson leaves for Victoria on Tuesday and will spend some days there, later visiting Seattle before returning to Winnipeg.

Fire at Fair

VANCOUVER, Aug. 11.—A mild stir was created by an outbreak of fire in the forestry building at the Exhibition at 2:18 today. The blaze was extinguished by the fire department. It occurred in the machinery operating the forest fire tableau. When the flames appeared spectators vacated the building in orderly fashion.

GREAT STORM MOVES NORTH TO CAROLINAS

Two More States Smitten by Hurricane—Foothill Region of North and South Carolina Invaded

FLOOD CONDITIONS SUCCEED TEMPEST

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 11.—The Carolinas today felt the effects of the storm which has crossed Florida and Georgia. A toll of four dead, others injured, scores homeless, and much property damage marked the progress late yesterday and last night through the rich Piedmont section of North and South Carolina. Tonight flood conditions caused by unprecedented rains menaced several communities, crippling communications, disrupting power service, and paralyzing railroad and highway traffic.

Central and southern South Carolina apparently were the hardest hit, high winds wrecking a number of scattered homes in that area, and torrential rains drenching most of the territory. Most of the injuries occurred near Balesburg, in which vicinity several persons were reported hurt in the wreckage of houses.

Jasper J. Harly died of injuries when his home at Balesburg collapsed in the gale. An unidentified man was found dead on the highway near Clinton, Hollabough. A Southern Railway freight conductor was killed when a high tension wire fell across his cab. A twelve-year-old girl was killed when her home was demolished near Union. Sparfburg was the greatest sufferer among the larger communities in the storm's path.

CHURCH MANUAL MAY BE REVISED

Contents Deal With Administration of Courts of United Church—Not With Doctrine

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—The statement of faith of the United Church of Canada, is not listed among matters which are to be reviewed by the forthcoming general council at Winnipeg. It was stated by United Church officials yesterday when questioned about reports to the effect that this subject would be brought up. Misapprehension on this score may have arisen, it was pointed out, because of intimation that the manual of constitution and government of the church was to be open to revision this year.

The manual, completed tentatively and published within the last twelve months, contains provisions as to administration of various church courts, and revision of these provisions was permissible.

The doctrinal statement of the basis of union was quite another matter, said officials, and there was a thorough understanding that no general council could change it without a reference to all the Presbyteries.

Pan-Pacific Women's Conference Opened

HONOLULU, Aug. 11.—Governor Wallace R. Barrington extended Hawaii's welcome today to the delegates from the United States, Japan, China, Philippines, India, Australia, New Zealand, Samoa and Tahiti to the first Pan-Pacific Women's Conference. The women, said the Governor, brought into the conference a courage equal to that of the men leaders of the past, plus the judgment that was the result of wider experience.

WORLD-FAMED STATESMAN TO VISIT CANADA

Sir Austen Chamberlain Ordered to Take Sea Trip for Health—To Make Voyage Via Panama

LADY CHAMBERLAIN EXPLAINS PURPOSE

No Political Significance—Foreign Secretary Will Travel Across Canada in Returning

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has been ordered to take a sea trip for the benefit of his health. He hopes to travel to California by way of the Panama Canal, traverse Canada and return to England across the Atlantic.

Lady Chamberlain, in authorizing this announcement tonight said that definite arrangements had not been made, but that the medical advisers believed that the Foreign Secretary will be sufficiently recovered from his serious illness to allow him to start on the tour late this month. He would expect to be back in England early in November.

The trip will have no political significance and Sir Austen will make no public addresses either in the United States or in the Dominion. The jaunt will be a purely holiday affair and a search for restored health. The distinguished tourist may make a short call in the West Indies. He intends to land at San Francisco and travel overland into and across Canada.

Automatic Rifle Approved for Use Of British Army

LONDON, Aug. 11.—A new self-loading rifle, capable of firing thirty-five rounds a minute, has been approved by the British Government with a view to ultimate issue to the troops.

It is the invention of General John T. Thompson, head of the Auto-Ordinance Corporation of New York. In collaboration with the B.S.A. Limited, England, when called the B.S.A.-Thompson self-loading rifle, it has won the prize of $15,000 offered by the Government for the best rifle submitted in competition for use in the army.

FORESTS BURN IN CALIFORNIA

BLAZE IN YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK CAUSES LOSS OF HALF MILLION

Exhausted Fire Fighters Forced Backward—Stands of Historic Sequoias Threatened

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—California's forest fire enemy, beaten back and conquered on many fronts this week, flamed afresh today in the Merced River canyon in Yosemite National Park and in the Guaymas Valley in Santa Barbara county. The Yosemite blaze started Tuesday, swept over 15,000 acres, destroyed camps one and two of the Yosemite Lodge Co., caused loss estimated at a half million dollars and tonight still forced exhausted rangers and forest service employees backward toward increasingly valuable timber. If the fire drives its way into a 7,000-acre tract of cut-over and exceedingly inflammable slashings, famous and historic sequoias may furnish additional fuel. The region is difficult of access, but additional men and fire-fighting equipment were thrown into the fight today in an effort to control the flames before they sweep into the park.

In Santa Barbara county, where the only other serious fire now threatens timber holdings, the towns of Bakersfield and Taft in Kern county were called upon for men to fight the fire burning in the Sequoia house canyon, Guaymas valley.

Near Spokane, Wash., abatement of wind enabled fire-fighters to control a 4,000-acre brush and timber fire that included some livestock and several farm buildings in its toll.

BRITAIN IS LEADER IN DISARMAMENT

HELEWELL, Yorkshire, Eng., Aug. 11.—Great Britain has done more in the direction of disarmament than any other country, and has shown her readiness to do more, said the Rt. Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, in an address here today.

The Kellogg proposal for a multi-lateral pact "is only another way of proposing what I proposed at Geneva a year ago," said Mr. Bridgeman.

Australian imports from Britain have dropped from 9.51 per cent to 7.90 per cent. The weakening of the British position as the world's greatest middleman union is illustrated by the decrease in re-exported merchandise to foreign nations, from 80.11 per cent for the first half of 1927 to 80.62 per cent for 1928, but the severance of Anglo-Russian trade relations accounts in part for this decrease.

PLANE CRASHES

SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N.J., Aug. 11.—Three men were killed in the crash of a biplane near Hadley Field early tonight. The men were said to be Major Lee Mason, Robert Howell and a flyer named Hack.

It was said the machine turned over and landed upside down while it was being put through an outside loop by Mason.

Trains Crash

GREENVILLE, S.C., Aug. 11.—James A. Baughman, of Greenville, engineer on a Piedmont & Northern passenger train, was killed tonight, when the passenger train collided with a freight within the city limits. None of the injured was believed to be in a serious condition.

Logging Camp Wiped Out by Sooke Fire; Not Yet Controlled

Gale Fans Blaze, Driving It Toward Langford and Glen Lakes—Dewdney and Osborne Ranches Still in Danger—Two Fires Are Now Joined—Watershed Safe at Present

Gangs Work in Shifts All Night; Another Fire Is West of Sooke

FANNED by a southwest wind, which reached a velocity of thirty-six miles an hour yesterday, the forest fires on the Sooke Highway, about four miles beyond Luxton, was racing toward Glen and Langford Lake districts, sweeping all in its path. The logging camp owned by the Pednault brothers was wiped out with its 200 cords of wood that had been stacked up 200,000 feet of logs that had been cut down, and also the stand of timber on which the company was working. The only thing saved from the camp was the machinery, which was hauled out by tractors and trucks over plank roads.

LIGHT CRUISER DESPATCH NOW AT ESQUIMALT

On the forecast of the vessel, 200 seamen were standing in formation in two rigid lines. On the after gun deck a marine band of fifteen pieces and a number of marines with rifles and fixed bayonets were stationed before 6:30 o'clock as the trim white-painted British light cruiser Despatch arrived in sight.

As the deep boom of the salute died down, the men came to attention, and the Admiral's reply of seven guns in succession echoed over the smoke-obscured hills. Steaming slowly down the harbor, the Despatch rounded the buoy, shaping her course for the naval dockyard wharf. When abreast of the marker, a clear-throated bugle rang out from HMS Durban, followed by a response from the Despatch. Officers of both ships saluted smartly as the Despatch crept to the wharf, grim, austere, and yet as alive as the men who manned her.

OFFICIAL CALLS TO BE MADE TODAY

The bugle again rang out. This time the "carry on" was sounded, sailors falling out of line and proceeding with duties necessary to tie up the warcraft. H.M.C.S. Vancouver was not a participant at the ceremony, being detained for cleaning, painting and minor repairs. Two officers of the guard were sent aboard the Despatch when she tied up and mails and correspondence for the officers passed over.

This morning shortly before noon, Commander P. W. Nellie, naval officer at Esquimalt, Captain George Lincoln Coleridge, of H.M.S. Despatch, and other officers of the fleet, were on hand to receive the Despatch. The Despatch was the first of the new class of light cruisers to be built in Canada.

Mrs. C. W. Rhodes, president of the Jubilee Hospital Auxiliary and a member of the board, has been asked to take the direction of the usual conference for members of auxiliaries.

There will be the customary medical and nursing features, and an exhibit of medical supplies held in conjunction with the convention. Mr. George Haddon, of the Vancouver General Hospital, is the present president.

Social engagements include a luncheon at St. Paul's Hospital on the invitation of the Sister Superior, and a visit to Grouse Mountain Chalet, with dinner there.

Farmer Drowns

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11.—Earl Warburton, twenty-seven, married a farmer of Crescent, Ill. district, twelve miles from Kinsington, Saskatchewan, was drowned in Sandy Lake, half a mile from his farm. He evidently fell from his boat. Besides his wife and baby daughter, Warburton is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Warburton of Vancouver, and five sisters, including Mrs. P. Baker, of New Westminster.

CARRIED OVERBOARD TWO MEN DROWN

SAN PEDRO, Aug. 11.—The loss of two men overboard in a hurricane off Cape San Lucas, Lower California, was reported today by wireless from the tanker Cities Service Patrol, to her agents here. Chief Officer Theodore Mortensen and Manuel L. Lados, German seaman, were battling down against the very high seas when a huge wave crashed upon deck and swept them into the ocean.

Driver Arrested

KAMLOOPS, Aug. 11.—Following a coroner's inquest investigating the death of Miss Beatrice Latremouille, nurse in training in the St. Paul's Hospital, Vancouver, Stephen Corbett McKnight, the driver of the car in which the girl met her death, was placed under arrest, charged with manslaughter. The verdict stated that Miss Latremouille came to her death as the result of the driver's lack of temporary control of the car on the Tranquille Road.

LIQUOR EXPORT MAY CONTINUE

Compromise Is Reached in Connection With Recent Extensive Ontario Seizure

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 11.—Attorneys for twenty-six liquor exporters, whose docks along the Canadian side of the Detroit River and their liquor stocks, estimated to be worth more than $10,000,000, were seized Friday by provincial police, conferred here today with Government authorities.

Although the results of the conference were not officially announced, police indicated that a compromise had been reached whereby exporters are to be permitted to continue pending their hearing next week on liquor law violation charges, providing they keep their stocks moving and do not board liquor in border warehouses.

company the party, but other engagements intervened. He has devoted himself to explain the situation as it appears to the Irish Free State authorities, in their relation to Great Britain, during his speeches in the United States. He described the legal status and constitutional organization to the American Bar Association, as an outcome of the treaty of 1921. In the following language:

"The first four articles of the treaty contain the terms of the agreement as to what may be called 'the external constitution' of the Irish Free State. By Article 1, Ireland agreed to enter the Community of Nations known as the British Empire with the same constitutional status in that community as the Dominion of Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia, the Dominion of New Zealand and the Union of South Africa.

"Ireland is not a British colony, but an ancient nation, which has entered into the British Community of Nations, clothed with the constitutional status and equality of a dominion member of that community, in pursuance of a pact of peace and friendship for the ending of an age-long enmity.

"The limitations upon sovereignty in the Austrian sense resulting from the treaty are very few, if indeed there can really be said to be any, since, such as they are, they bind by agreement between the two countries under the treaty, and from the treaty and the legislation in Ireland supplementing it, and from no other source, they derive their authority.

"The principle of three limitations is that which requires the external form common to all members of the British Community, that is to say, the Crown as the mouthpiece of the executive. The second is the provision of harbor and other facilities for British forces. But, as was pointed out by Mr. Lloyd George, such provision could not affect national status, inasmuch as it is granted by agreement between the two countries, parties to the treaty. The third limits the cases in which special leave to appeal to the King in council will be granted.

"An examination of the Irish domestic constitution will show that it was most influenced by the written constitutions of the United States and of the new Germany, and of Switzerland, as well as by the principles comprising the unwritten constitution of Great Britain," he said.

fell in twenty-four hours, sending creeks out of banks and flooding the cotton mill towns of Beaumont and Arkwright, from which residents were forced to flee. In Spartanburg some buildings were under-erected, and the gas service interrupted. Train service throughout the affected area was badly delayed and highway travel in many sections blocked.

SOME INCIDENTS

A Southern Railway train due at Columbia at 10:30 o'clock last night from Greenville was marooned all night and held up indefinitely due to a washout on the line.

The southbound New York-Atlanta air mail was put on a train, after the night carrier plane, which had been held at Richmond, Va., until daylight, was forced down in a field near Greensboro, N.C., today.

Morganton, Marion and Maiden in the vicinity of Hickory, N.C., were isolated today and Hickory was depending for its water supply on three emergency reservoirs after its waterworks pumping station had been flooded by a four-hour cloud-burst, during which ten inches of rain fell.

COUNTING THE COST

Cities in south Georgia visited by the storm today counted the damage done to growing crops, highways, railroad tracks and public utilities. Rivers and streams had swollen to the highest stages on record in many places and isolated half a dozen communities. In Florida, where the storm's greatest damage was wrought, a new area of approximately twenty miles from Tampa to the west coast was flooded today.

Two hundred persons living in the affected territory were warned last night to evacuate their homes and were believed to have escaped.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 11.—This city, of 10,000 population, was without a fresh water supply tonight because of damage to mains and the municipal pumping station by flood waters of Fishing Creek. The population turned to soft drinks to quench thirst.

Engineers said damage to electric power units caused by flood waters would take several days to repair.

PRINCE GEORGE SAILS

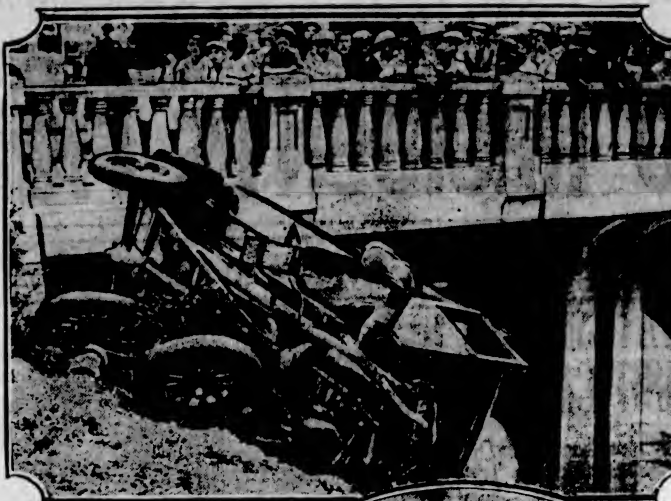

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Aug. 11.—Prince George, youngest son of King George and Queen Mary, today started for Canada, but had difficulty in getting under way. As he was about to board the Empress of Australia for Quebec, the prince was badly refused admission by a policeman at the barrier. He had been expected to arrive elsewhere. After an explanation the prince was able to pass but then encountered a stolid master-at-arms at the gangway, who declared nobody was allowed aboard without permit. The prince at length went through his pockets, found his tickets and passed on.

BODY OF MAN FOUND ON MALCOLM ISLAND—WIFE NOT TO BE FOUND

Both Believed to Have Been Killed—Fishing Town of Sointula Fears Sequel

VANCOUVER, Aug. 11.—Discovery of the body of a man, with a bullet wound in the back of the head floating on the surface of a small lake on Malcolm Island, coupled with the disappearance of his wife, has led police to believe the two were victims of a double murder. The report came from Sointula, located on Malcolm Island, off the east coast of Vancouver Island, in Queen Charlotte Strait.

Valkangas and his wife were last seen about a week ago when they said they were going fishing in their boat. Their failure to return led to a search being made for them. The boat was found adrift and it was presumed the two had been drowned, but further search resulted in the finding of Valkangas' body. The search is being continued for Mrs. Valkangas.

The discovery has thrown the town of Sointula into excitement. With most of the adult male population engaged in the fishing grounds the women of the town fear the supposed murderer may still be on Malcolm Island and they are banding together at night for protection.

ACT ASCRIBED TO INSANITY

MRS. MARGARET SMITH FORMALLY CHARGED WITH MURDER

Evidence at Coroner's Inquest Shows Woman Suffering From Religious Mania

VANCOUVER, Aug. 11.—Formal charge of murder of her daughter, Mary, aged fifteen, was laid against Mrs. Margaret Smith, of South Vancouver, today, at the General Hospital, where she has been lying since she was found in a state of insanity last Wednesday morning. The daughter died from the effects of the poisoning, but Mrs. Smith is thought to be recovering. A coroner's jury this afternoon found that the daughter "came to her death by poison administered by her mother while temporarily insane." The evidence showed that the woman for some months had been suffering from a religious mania.

CONFESION MADE

It was brought out that she admitted to the police that a week before the tragedy she had bought a bottle of poison with the intention of killing herself and her daughter, but lost courage. She said she bought the rat poison at a drug store and gave it to her daughter Wednesday morning after her husband had gone to work. She left several letters in which she expressed her suicidal desire to kill herself, but what she described as "witching of the nerves."

Mrs. Smith also said that as she was about to commit suicide she was about to kill her daughter, said to be subnormal, without a mother, would be taken to an asylum.

Durban and Lieutenant-Commander P. I. Agnew, of H.M.C.S. Vancouver, will pay their official calls to H.M.S. Despatch.

The Despatch will be here until August 17, when she will leave for Comox. The balance of her schedule follows:

Vancouver, August 22; Esquimalt, September 3; leaves Esquimalt, September 9; arrives Astoria, September 10; leaves Astoria, September 13; arrives San Francisco, September 15; leaves San Francisco, September 21; arrives Los Angeles, September 26; arrives Canal Zone, October 4; leaves Canal Zone, October 7; arrives Kingston, Jamaica, October 15; arrives Bermuda, October 18. H.M.S. Despatch or H.M.A. Durban will be open to the public from 4:15 to 6 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

Logging Camp Wiped Out by Sooke Fire; Not Yet Controlled

FIRE IN DANGER

Much credit is due the fire rangers and supervisor, who got little or no sleep at all last night. The gangs, which worked in shifts throughout the night, were camped on the Dewdney ranch near the barn in which had been stored the household effects of Mr. Waite and Mrs. Osborne. This point was selected so that men taking rest could be used in the event of the fire sweeping down on the Dewdney and Osborne farms.

A second fire raged all day at Otter Point. The blaze started at about 9 o'clock on Friday night, when the fire rangers were doing all in their power to get more men. Twenty men were obtained to fight this fire, and the number was increased yesterday afternoon. When first reported, it was burning in a logged-off area of about seventy acres in extent. The blaze was spreading last night. It is situated a mile off the highway between Tugwell Creek and Murr Creek, ten miles west of Sooke.

Forest Ranger Sweetman stated last night that so far this season there had been thirty-seven fires in what is known among the forest rangers as the Colwood district. Of this total only two had been traced to campfires and a few that had originated along the railway tracks. The remainder were started by cigarette butts thrown from passing automobiles, he said.

A small blaze at Cameron Lake, which was expected to be extinguished by night, was the only new outbreak reported to forestry headquarters Friday. Two of the fires reported Thursday, at South Wellington and Bevan, were out Friday and a more serious outbreak on Theis Island was well in hand, according to wireless communications received here.

its kind during the season, and the coming one will be no exception to the general rule, it is anticipated. The committees in charge of the arrangements for the gathering, which is held under the auspices of the executive of the party in this city, have made preparations, so that everything may proceed without confusion.

The programme of sports, which is a very complete one, will start at 2 o'clock. There will be a catering department, which will provide for the refreshments required during the day.

There will also be a programme of speeches throughout the afternoon, including an address by Hon. S. F. Tolmie, the leader of the party, who has just achieved such a decided victory at the polls. The local members-elect will be present, and as well as the Federal members, and the senators of the province.

An interesting feature will be the tug-of-war for two trophies. One of them, which is open to all comers, is the Bower Cup, which has been competed for several times. The other is confined to ex-service teams for the Hinchliffe Cup, which has also been the subject of competition for several years.

A PIGMY HIPPOPOTAMUS

Mr. J. S. Fenton has brought home from Sierra Leone and presented to the Zoo a baby pigmy hippopotamus, about five months old, plump, and very healthy in appearance. Less than two feet in length, it was wheeled from the sanatorium to the hippopotamus house in a small tub of water, trying all the time to climb out of its bath, and splashing vigorously. Its diet consists of four tins of diluted milk and two raw eggs in the morning, two more tins at noon, and four tins in the evening. It is just beginning to cut its teeth, and likes a raw potato or an apple on which to practise. The back is slaty grey, and the under parts white with a good deal of pink. The pigmy hippopotamus is very distinct from the ordinary hippopotamus found all over Africa. Even when full grown the species does not exceed six feet in length.—London Times.

BUILDING WILL BE OPEN TODAY

PUBLIC WILL BE ADMITTED TO SEE THE NEW CATHEDRAL

Construction of Clerestory Recently Started—Much Work Accomplished in Interior

The construction of the clerestory, or upper part of the nave, of the new Christ Church Cathedral, was begun a few days ago. The side walls of the nave will now rise steadily from their present height of forty-five feet up to the eaves at eighty feet, and from this point a steep copper roof will reach upward to an apex 108 feet above the ground. The beginning of the clerestory can be seen from the south side of Burdett Avenue.

Work was also started last week on the rose window, and adjoining masonry. This will be the most prominent feature of the portion now under construction, and its gradual development will be watched with interest. The window will be twenty-five feet in diameter and will have upwards of forty openings for glass.

During the last few months, much work has been done in the interior of the building. The gallery over the south aisle has been constructed, and, in the north aisle, the vaulted ceiling has been built.

BUILDING OPEN TODAY

In response to many inquiries, the cathedral authorities are opening the building to the public this afternoon, from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock. Visitors will be able to see the south aisle for its entire length of 135 feet. The width of the aisle, from the outside wall to the south arcade of the nave, is twenty-five feet, and the height from the floor to the ceiling is forty feet.

Visitors will enter the building through the big gate on Quadra Street. According to a recent decision of the building committee, the only condition of admission is the acceptance of all risk, and visitors are advised to walk around carefully, avoiding scaffolding and other building material.

The architect, Mr. J. C. M. Keith, P.R.B.A., will be present this afternoon to answer questions, and to explain the portions of the cathedral under construction. With the commencement of the clerestory, additional gifts and subscriptions have been received for the building fund. Towards the sum of $100,000 required to complete the nave, recent contributions of $50, $400, and smaller amounts have brought the fund to date to $80,337.84.

Circus Elephant Shot, Citizens Given Steaks

LEWISTON, Idaho, Aug. 11.—The luscious chops and tender steaks of Little Mary, the elephant who with four playmates attempted to demolish Lewiston Thursday, were served yesterday to its citizens, free of charge. Mary and her gigantic sidekicks were shot dead Sunday, and other property to the tune of at least $2,600 after they went amuck on account of heat and excitement, before Mary was shot down by the heavy rifle of Mayor E. P. Bradock, and the other four mammoths were recaptured and returned to the Sells-Floto Circus.

HIGHLANDERS TO MEET AT BANFF

Scottish Musical Festival and Athletic Contest Will Be National in Scope

Everything is in readiness for the great Highland gathering and Scottish musical festival at Banff, August 21 to September 3. A fine array of pipers, Highland dancers and athletes will perform in the beautiful natural arena, the grounds of the Banff Springs Hotel, which have been specially prepared for the gathering. For four days Banff will be the meeting place of the descendants of Scotland's most famous clan chieftains, and of her renowned exponents in hammer throwing, putting the shot, tossing the caber, etc.

The mountains around the natural amphitheatre will resound with the music of the pibroch, "stirling" marches and the gay strathspeys and reels, and nimble dancers of Scotland will dance the fling, the sword dance and reels in the centre of as beautiful a setting as one could wish to see.

Scotmen all over Canada are greatly interested in this great gathering at Banff, and the town will be ablaze with the colorful tartans, and everywhere the beautiful dress of the Highlander will be in evidence.

On Sunday, September 2, a public religious service will be held at Sun Dance Canyon, when Dr. Charles W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) will preach the sermon and the old Covenant hymns will be sung. In the evening, Scottish concerts will be held, in which a number of celebrated artists will take part. Burns' cantata, "The Jolly Beggar," will be presented, and the revival of this famous cantata is creating considerable interest. The four-day festival will, therefore, be national in character, and the scenes enacted at the great Highland gatherings in Scotland will be re-enacted at Banff.

HERO RECEIVES PUBLIC HONORS

PREMIER, AT PRINCE ALBERT, PRESENTS MEDAL TO BERN JOHNSON

Drove Hundred Miles Through Blizzard to Take Woman to Hospital for Operation

PRINCE ALBERT, NATIONAL PARK, Sask., Aug. 11.—Two heroes, a man and a dog, received reward for bravery at the opening of the Prince Albert National Park yesterday. The man was Bern Johnson, of Big River. The dog was Prince. The man, Premier Mackenzie King presented the Humane Society diploma. Prince received a handsome new collar, the gift of the Big River Dog Derby Association.

The heroic deed which was accorded public recognition today goes back to the cold and snow of last winter in the far North country. One hundred miles north of Big River, the end of steel, Miss Rose Littlewood contracted appendicitis. It was imperative that she be moved to the hospital at Prince Albert, and Johnson, with his team of huskies, undertook the task.

Prince was the leader of the sled team. With the sick woman on the sled, the 100-mile drive through snow and cold started. The elements were unkind. The storm attained the proportions of a blizzard. Finally, even Johnson, experienced as he was in the difficulties of the northern trail, lost his way. For hours he made vain efforts to locate it. Then he fell back on Prince. Prince led the party to Big River safely, and the life of Miss Littlewood was saved.

Yesterday Prince, who stood on the platform beside his master to receive the collar from the Prime Minister, looked every inch a hero. To both, Premier King addressed words of highest praise. It was "to the innate chivalry of soul of men that the world owes its greatest deeds," he declared.

EAGLE SEIZES BABY

MAC LUBEC, Maine, Aug. 11.—An immense eagle swooped into the farm of Guy Lyons near here yesterday, seized two-year-old Buddy Lyons in its talons and sought to carry him away.

Buddy's five-year-old brother grasped the child's ankles and after a tussle, pulled him free.

The bird, which had wing spread of seven feet, soared to a nearby tree and remained there all day. It was the first time that an eagle had been known to attempt to carry off a child in this territory. Although the birds, protected by Federal law, have raided poultry yards.

Willows Exhibition This Year Will Be Strong in Stock Classes—Horse Section Is Strong

Three states of the United States and most of the provinces of Canada will be represented in the livestock competing for honours at the Provincial Exhibition opening at the Willows, Victoria, August 20, and continuing until August 25.

Officials of the show are now busy segregating the many entries rushed in the last few days to reach the office before closing day.

It is believed that heavy horses will provide the greatest display on record. Well over a hundred entries were received before the list closed. The six-horse team class, in which some handsome turnouts will be shown, also proved a drawing card. McCreeky, of Garfield, Washington; A. C. Ruby, of California; Damascus Milk Company, of Portland; A. H. Merritt, of Rosario, Washington; R. Burge, of Washington; and the Fraser Valley Milk Producers are among the entries.

The light horse classes have drawn over 130 entries, with Oregon, Washington and British Columbia well represented.

There are over 400 head of cattle and over 400 head of sheep entered, spread over the different classes. Sheep raising districts on Vancouver Island will be well represented, and visitors to the fair should be able to gather an idea of the progress made on the Island in this direction. A sheep shearing competition will be held.

Swine, goats, rabbits, poultry are separate exhibits and interest shown this year indicates a heavy entry and keen competition.

CITY TEMPLE BAND COMES SECOND IN PROVINCIAL TEST

The City Temple Band won second prize in the British Columbia annual band contest recently held in Vancouver, losing first place by only four points to Nanaimo Silver Cornet Band. This band has existed under the leadership of Mr. Charles Rose for four years and has won nine prizes at nine consecutive contests. It won the band contest at the Victoria Musical Festival last year, but, owing to there being no competitors this year, the band contest in Victoria was abandoned.

This band was engaged by Beltingham at the Tulip Festival and headed the parade.

FRIENDLY ATTITUDE OF BRITAIN TO CHINA

SHANGHAI, Aug. 11.—China is now looking forward to a period of rehabilitation aided by Great Britain's friendly attitude and the United States' voluntary action in agreeing to deal with China on the basis of full reciprocity, said C. T. Wang, Nationalist Foreign Minister, today in an interview. China's immediate future, Wang remarked, is full of pitfalls, both national and international, and there would doubtless be occasions when the powers would be required to display broadminded sympathy and statesmanship if they wished to assist and not hinder Chinese re-vivification.

PAVILION LOOKS OVER CADBORO BAY

Attractive Accommodation Is Provided for Beach Parties at Popular Resort

At a charming point on Cadboro Bay a pavilion, serving a long-felt want, has been located, and is being operated by Mr. C. F. Eagles, of this city. Looking out over the waters of the bay, within easy reach from the Uplands street car line, this new structure under the charge of Mrs. Eagles is serving as a veritable home for frequenters of the beach.

Everything about the place is artistic and attractive. Located close to the water, there is a very enticing open tea room, which looks out upon the waters and the picturesque surroundings of the bay. This tea room is electrically lighted, so that it is much sought even in the evenings. In the rear is a spacious dancing pavilion which during the day may be used as a refreshment and tea room. Surrounding it are refreshment boxes which are open to the dancing floor. Hung with peach colored curtains, the effect of the whole in the evening is very enticing, and the bay is proving a very attractive spot.

To those who wish to spend the whole day at the beach, the pavilion offers the opportunity to them to have their lunch served there.

A further feature that appeals to the visitors is the presence of two large tents on the ground adjoining the pavilion for the use of ladies as dressing rooms, should they desire to go in bathing in the salt water.

An orchestra is provided on Thursday and Saturday evenings and on the other nights an Orthophonic provides excellent dance music.

Nyasaland and Rhodesia, South Africa, are being connected by auto highways.

New features in the NEW STUDEBAKERS

... See them now

Even the brief glimpse of these smart new Studebakers, as they flash past on open road or boulevard, tells its story of rare body artistry and low, fleet lines.

But come in now and examine, at your leisure, the repeated evidence of Studebaker engineering genius, expressed in the luxury, comfort and performance of these splendid motor cars!

Then drive one. You may have owned a dozen costly cars, but you'll find that in these new Studebakers American inventive genius has surpassed them all. No other car ever built can give you such a wonderful ride.

Only a few of the great Studebaker achievements are pictured here. There are many more. No matter how much or little you plan to invest in your new car, you will want to see them. Come in today!

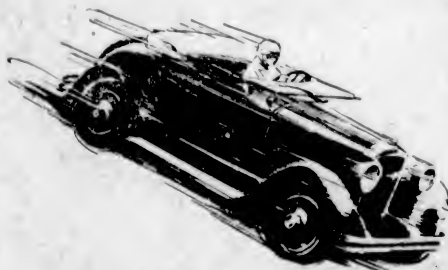

STUDEBAKER'S FOUR NEW LINES

The President Eight $2895 to $4020
The Commander $2595 to $2795
The Dictator $2245 to $2385
The Erskine $1895 to $1965

Delivered at Victoria, fully equipped, including hydraulic shock absorbers on all Studebakers.

Ball bearing spring shackles—a new and exclusive Studebaker feature. Greatest improvement in motor car comfort since the balloon tire! Freedom of spring action never before considered possible. No squeaks, rattles and adjustments. Each shackle contains lubricant for upwards of 20,000 miles—a great advance over any other system of chassis lubrication.

Dramatic proof of the ease with which these new Studebakers may be driven is offered by the remarkable records recently established by girls driving under official A. A. A. supervision at Atlantic City Speedway. For 500 miles, these girls with only ordinary experience maintained an average speed of 70 miles per hour in The President Sedan, 54 in The Erskine, 60 in The Dictator and 77 in The Commander Roadster.

Straight Eight engine used in The President. 100 velvet horsepower. The smoothness with which this great motor drives the luxurious President sedans at sustained high speeds proves it the finest power plant ever placed in an automobile. Yet The President sells at a One-Price—$2225 to $3280 at factory. Nineteen 8-cylinder sedans have less horsepower yet sell at higher prices.

POLITICAL ETHICS

The North Battleford News of Saskatchewan has come to the sage conclusion that the defeat of the Liberals in British Columbia was due to the fact that they were in a minority in the Province. It even admits that the Conservatives would have triumphed four years ago had it not been for the presence of the Provincials in the field. While that newspaper is just in estimating what party feeling is in this Province, by drawing attention to both Federal and Provincial representation (forty-seven members), it also hints that the Province may expect no fair dealing from Ottawa because of its political complexion. Here is what it says: "The question now for British Columbians is to ask themselves every morning before they breakfast on sockeye and loganberries is just how much weight forty-nine (sic) yeeping Tories in both Houses will have with the Federal Liberal Government when they come to deal with the multitude of larger questions intimately affecting British Columbia in the sphere of national politics?"

In other words The North Battleford News, a Liberal organ, subscribes to the doctrine enunciated by Premier Maclean during the late election to the effect that a Liberal Government in British Columbia would be in a better position than a Conservative Government to negotiate with a Liberal Government at Ottawa. The North Battleford News seems unaware of the fact that it was this conception of politics held by Dr. Maclean which contributed to his defeat. It may be a Liberal doctrine that only Liberals can negotiate with Liberals. It is a Liberal doctrine that to the victors belong the spoils. It is also a Liberal doctrine that when a Liberal Government is in power those constituencies which have returned Liberals are to receive the most favored treatment. Such a conception of government is all wrong. It is not only petty, but in practice it works in the direction of defeating the ends of democracy. It becomes a tyranny in which favoritism is practiced, and it was that very tyranny as exemplified in the domination of the Political Machine in British Columbia that led to the downfall of the Liberals.

Conditions are hardly the same in British Columbia as in Saskatchewan. The texture of the population differs. Here, in politics, the people believe in the principle of fair play. They are impervious to threats in the event of not returning this, that or the other candidate to power. A stage has been reached in the development of this Province when its people are no longer susceptible to political bribery. They do not regard the task of government as according to the gospel of The North Battleford News. This they showed very conclusively in the late election, the result of which may even afford a lesson to the Saskatchewan weekly on the necessity of straightening out some of the political ethics of its party friends.

THE TOUCHSTONE OF CHRISTIANITY

In 1918 the author of "Christ, St. Francis and Today," wrote that there cannot have been many periods of history, "in which the writing has stood out so clearly upon the wall, and yet time has been so liberally allowed to prepare for the crisis, as now. Few generations can have stood so nearly as we do in the position which the Jewish people occupied when the Baptist began his preaching: 'Repent ye, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand.'" These words are still peculiarly appropriate says a writer commenting in The London Times on the approaching change in the Primacy of the Church of England. He pleads for the exercise of the power of righteousness under the new Primacy, especially during a period in which the Lambeth Conference will be held. He pleads for risks in the interests of a greater edition of Christianity, "more simple and more sincere, and the wider in its appeal because of the enlargement of its charity and understanding."

The writer is of opinion that if reform and enlargement are to proceed constitutionally from above an Archbishop of singular gifts of leadership will be required, "with the faith that knows that the world's 'desirable but impossible' can always be beaten by the power of Christ." The times, he says, need special treatment in the application of which Lambeth has a unique opportunity. What he suggests is a summons from the next Archbishop of Canterbury to this generation to forget the quarrels of its grandfathers and "to give the values of Jesus Christ the primary place that they should hold, together with a statement of what he believes his church should forego intellectually, and sacrifice materially, to that end." He believes that the more courageous this summons is, "and the more indisputably in harmony with the mind of Christ, the greater the respect with which it would be heard and the greater the response with which it would meet."

After all the question which confronts every church in Christendom is, "are they fully Christian." In respect to the Church of England the writer we are quoting says that many of its standards are not those of its Founder. The reform lies in taking Jesus Christ seriously and at his word. "There are times," says the writer, "when courageous action in the only safe and wise course to pursue when what for years has been said to be desirable but impossible must be done, and done without delay." Christianity is either impossibly idealistic or else it contains a summons to live true to it, be the consequences what they may. The writer is not concerned in the interests of any particular church but he does believe that the Anglican Communion, "with its ideal of comprehensiveness, might, if it dared to risk its very life, bring into being the Great Church that is yet to be—the society of all those who, while they disagree about a hundred things, are at one in the only thing that really matters, their common desire to follow the example of Jesus Christ and to be made for the world's sake more like unto Him."

AGE OF THE COSMOS

The genesis of the present state of cosmos is lost in the mists of unfathomable antiquity, if the figures quoted by Sir James Jeans in his volume on Astronomy and Cosmogony may be even within millions of years of being correct. He arrives at his figures by converging calculations from several sets of data. Not only does he concern himself with the age, but with the probable fate of the universe—from the scientific standpoint. If he is right in his conjectures, and they are very largely conjectures, humanity has no need for any trepidation.

The sun, he says, loses 250,000,000 tons of mass a minute, but it possesses enough mass to radiate at its present rate for fifteen million millions of years. He admits that it may last even longer, because, as it grows older, its rate of loss may slow down. He assigns an age of ten-million millions of years to the stars, including the sun. All the available lines of evidence, he says, "agree in assigning lives of the order of millions of millions of years to the stars." The age of the earth, which he bases on terrestrial evidence, he sets at between 1,500 and 5,000 million years. Much of what he has to say is based on circumstantial evidence, which, in dealing with the cosmos and the conditions governing its existence, may conceivably err, since so much is vague. A critic of his volume says a suggestion arises, a suggestion destructive of the validity of circumstantial evidence, that some common factor has crept into all the lines of evidence, making them not independent but different aspects of the same. "In the law courts," says this critic, "circumstantial evidence may be too good to be true."

Moreover, the age of stars does not give a clue to the age of the cosmos as a whole. The scientific correspondent of The London Times says that "it must have taken more than 60,000,000,000 years for the primeval chaos to condense into nebulae." Science has no clue as to how long the protons and electrons may have existed in a dissociated form in the central regions of the great nebulae. There is not a shadow of a clue to the duration of the "primeval chaos." The most that can be said, of certainty, is that "the present order of the universe has had an origin in time. What Sir James Jeans believes is that if the beginning of the present order of the universe is vague, "its end seems certain," though it is difficult to know how it can be certain in the realm of speculation about what may be infinite and eternal.

The argument, for what it is worth, is that radiation constantly going on means loss of mass, and ultimately the mass will disappear. What is not known, however, is what happens to the vast proportion of radiation which disappears in empty space. At least the supposition may be entertained, to quote The Times' scientific correspondent, that the radiation, of the fate of which we know nothing, may be wound up again and reappear as mass. The whole subject is such a vast one as to dwell mainly in the realms of speculative science. For the millions of years, or aeons of time, which Sir James Jeans deals with there is no proof worthy of being characterized as positive, as will probably continue to be the case in dealing with the be-all and end-all of extra-terrestrial objects.

THE LAND OF PROMISE

(It has been suggested by a Western politician that native-born Canadians should at all times be given preference over all other applicants of British birth for appointments in the Government service.) It seems a sad mistake to draw sharp lines of racial distinction in any British country, particularly in a country like Canada which is urgently calling on the better type of British settler to come and make his home amongst us. We promise him the same equality of status that he enjoys in the Motherland, and even go further and suggest wider opportunities and more freedom from special privilege and class conventions. He could scarcely form a happy impression of his new home if he finds that his British citizenship and ties of blood are a detriment rather than an asset in making his way in "the Land of Promise."—Ottawa Journal.

It is better in some respects to be admired by those with whom you live than to be loved by them. And this is not on account of any gratification of vanity, but because admiration is so much more tolerant than love.—Sir Arthur Helps.

It was a saying of the ancients that "truth lies in a well," and, to carry on the metaphor, we may justly say that logic supplies us with steps where we may go down to reach the water.—Dr. Isaac Watts.

Sin has many tools, but a lie is the handle which fits them all.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Note and Comment

By R. S. D.

Gene Tunney is a very lucky and an extremely ungrateful fellow. He is lucky because he is going to be married to an heiress to millions of dollars; he is ungrateful because he wants the newspapers of the United States to leave him alone. As if the newspapers of the United States or anywhere else could leave a man alone who is a native of the United States and the champion prize-fighter of the world and who is about to marry one of the richest women in the world.

The newspapers have a certain claim on Mr. Tunney. There was a time when Mr. Tunney thought he had a certain claim upon the newspapers. There was a time when the public to publish his picture whenever his professional advisers asked them to do it. The newspapers were very generous to Mr. Tunney in that respect. They published pictures of the champion prize-fighter in so many professional poses and so frequently that everybody who read the newspapers became as familiar with the features of the good-looking champion pug as they were with the more pleasing features of the Prince of Wales.

Mr. Tunney was agreeable to the publication of his picture as long as it brought him dollars and notoriety. Now that he has accumulated many dollars and is going to establish a big bank account as a result of a fortunate matrimonial venture, Mr. Tunney asks the newspapers to leave him alone. He says he will give out no more pictures for publication. All the pictures he has taken are to be reserved for private circulation. In high social and financial circles. He also asks the newspapers to leave his intended wife alone. He supports his position by pointing out that in England when a public character retires into private life his private wishes are respected and he is left alone.

Whatever we may think of the profession which brought him fame, fortune and the prospects of happiness, no one will deny that Mr. Tunney is a man of great ability. During the course of his professional career he was a credit to a somewhat doubtful profession. So far as the world knows, his private conduct has been above reproach. Now that he is done with notoriety he wants no more publicity. He asks, reasonably enough, to be permitted to live in privacy like any other useful citizen. We trust The Colonist will respect his wishes and extend to him and his prospective bride the usual conventional congratulations.

And yet we are not sure that if old Andrew Carnegie, or whoever it was that laid the foundations upon which Miss Lauder's great fortune rests, were alive and asked to approve of this sensational matrimonial romance or venture, that he would opt to pull a long and wry face and ask for time to give it most serious consideration. The great prize fighters of the United States have been somewhat notorious for their latitudinarian views on the subject of matrimony. They have appeared in the divorce courts almost as frequently as in the "squared circle." But of course none of them had the great good fortune of them had the great good fortune to win the hands and hearts of millionaires. Most of their alliances or entanglements, at least after they had become famous, were with ladies of the professional classes on the stage or in the "movies." The pictures of a number of them have been printed in the newspapers long after they had ceased to become of public interest in a strictly professional sense.

However, we may be sure that the vigilant guardians of the young lady in this celebrated case have made a thorough investigation of the antecedents of the happy and fortunate Gene Tunney. After all, this is a democratic age and the United States is the happy home of "democracy." It is not to the discredit, but rather to the credit, of Mr. Tunney that he began life in the lowest possible circumstances and by sheer native genius and ambition won recognition and a million or so of dollars. If his love of literature was but a pose assumed for a purpose, we do not know that that is to his discredit, for it proves that he felt he was superior to his early environment and that he was fitted for better things. He is about to be received into a higher circle, and he may prove worthy of the trust that is being imposed in him. He has demonstrated his quality in a physical sense, and trust the newspapers will leave him alone and give him a chance to prove that he is just as good a citizen as he was a fair, honorable and invincible prize-fighter. At the same time events have demonstrated that matrimonial alliances between dollars and fame, even when buttressed by youth and beauty on one side and strength on the other, carry no guarantee of immediate domestic happiness and ultimate domestic tranquility.

The Pleasures of Victoria

At this time of the year it is an easy task to write of the pleasures of Victoria. The only difficulty is to know where to begin.

Beauty is pleasant. It does not matter whether that beauty is the work of Nature or whether it is the work of men's hands. Flowers, trees, mountains, water, women and children, even men (sometimes) painted pictures, cleverly designed buildings—all are beautiful and bring joy to the hearts of those who have eyes to see them.

Just now the domed vault of heaven radiates its beauty upon the earth, which responds by producing the myriad hues of all kinds of flowers. Here is one of the chief pleasures of Victoria, and it is much appreciated by the hosts of visitors who pour out of the excursion boats. The first thing that catches their notice is the lawn in front of the Parliament Buildings, with its brilliant beds of flowers. Here is a Victoria of roses which is one of the greatest beauties of the city. There is a show of roses just now that is one of the finest sights in North America. It is a sight which can only be seen here on the Southern end of Vancouver Island; elsewhere the climate is too severe, too hot and dry or too cold and windy. There are many other gardens in and around Victoria where equally fine roses may be seen, but there is hardly one where a mass in growth in so conspicuous a position. Close to the gardens around the House of Parliament are the splendid gardens of the Empress Hotel, through which by the courtesy of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. visitors are free to wander and enjoy the scene there presented of a first-class garden under the management of a first-class gardener. The inner lawn is surrounded on three sides by a picturesque pergola over which the American pillar and arches and other climbing roses display their brilliant blossoms. This lawn is bounded on its eastern side by a huge bed of roses in which many rare varieties may be seen in perfection. At its back is a high trellis entirely covered by Paul's red climber. The scene presented by this excellently-kept lawn, bordered on all sides by masses of queen of flowers, shows what can be done by intelligent design carried out by expert gardening. It is most striking to those older inhabitants of Victoria who can remember this locality thirty years ago.

This article is not intended to be a description of the Empress or other particular garden, but after stating, as I have done, that beauty is pleasant, one cannot fail to point out where this beauty may be found. And there are other places, too, where it can be found in abundance. There is the Stadacona Park up at the head of Pandora Avenue, where not only are there noble specimens of our unique oak trees in picturesque surroundings, but here also expert gardening has heightened the natural beauties of the place and adorned it with brilliant beds of floral gems.

PARSIMONY AT BEACON HILL

Naturally Beacon Hill Park must not be omitted from the list, but one cannot refrain from alluding to the many evidences of the parsimony of the Park Commissioners. Unfortunately the cleaning out of the lake which was done a year ago, or more, does not seem to have had any effect, and the water weeds are worse than ever. It is not necessary to point out other evidences of the parsimonious policy adopted by the committee that there are many signs of want of care and attention which mark the general effect of this beautiful park, which are glaringly evident after viewing the well-kept gardens already described.

The Commissioners, however, deserve credit for the beauty they have added to other bare spots that are under their care. The triangles at the junction of Port Street and Oak Bay Avenue, and at the junction of Government and Douglas Streets, where once the so-called fountain reared its form, and another piece of ground where Montreal street crosses Superior Street have all been planted with roses, which, during the flowering season, make these erstwhile desolate spots into little oases of beauty, thereby giving joy to the hearts of all travellers in the deserts of streets that surround them.

The Commissioners also deserve credit for the removal of the band stand in the park from its old site at the south end of the bridge to a beautiful open glade, surrounded with fine old trees, where hundreds, may thousands, of people sit in the pleasant shade on Sunday afternoons and listen amid beautiful surroundings to the excellent music discoursed by the fine bands of the City Temple and the 16th Canadian Scottish Regiment.

These two bands are certainly two of the great pleasures of Victoria. The music they select for their programmes reflects the artistic attainments of their conductors and their excellent work brings their musicians to perform with a wholeheartedness that if these musicians were not performers of a very high order and of long training, the pieces they produce would be dismal failures. Good music requires good performance or it becomes more painful to listen to than jazz. That this music is appreciated by the people of Victoria is evidenced by the large audiences who listen to it every week. No doubt the popularity of these band concerts is partly owing to the fact that they are absolutely free, no charge made and no collection is taken up. The pleasure of listening to them is enhanced by the enterprise of a private citizen who supplies free programmes, so that those whose musical education is rusty, or perhaps never existed, may know what they are listening to.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The steamer Wilson G. Hunt left at 4 p.m. yesterday for New Westminster with a cargo of freight and passengers, who were Mrs. and Miss Toole, Miss E. Toole, Mr. J. Toole, Miss E. Toole, Mr. Toole, Mrs. Toole and others.

GOOD MUSICIANS

Victoria is not only blessed with the two bands alluded to above, but has many others who (or which—take your choice) supply music of a high order for dances and other entertainments, and there are individual performers who bring credit to themselves and to the town by their musical abilities. Among these are three young ladies, who play respectively the piano, the violin, and the cello. They give us music of the very highest order, and in its performance they exhibit artistic skill as high as the class of music they render. The trio is undoubtedly one of Victoria's artistic gems. Victoria also possesses a musician of the very highest rank among pianists, but it is seldom that she is heard. Possibly this may be owing to the fact that the people of Victoria are so accustomed to all sorts of free gifts from a bountiful nature that they hesitate to pay the value of anything, even music. Possibly, also, Victorians or at any rate most of them are not yet rich enough to indulge in the luxury of first-class music, which is a good deal more costly than even motor cars. In other branches of the arts Victoria is well supplied. From time to time there are exhibitions of pictures of local artists who show us that we possess painters of no mean order. Poetry and prose also have their artists, some who use the former medium prefer to remain secluded, but they are here, and in time will no doubt give the public the opportunity of enjoying their compositions. Of prose writers there is one whose fame is world wide, and whose name upon a book instantly makes it a "best-seller," T. S. Arthur, who has, especially, particularly among the younger folk, and there are many opportunities of avoiding a dull evening by attending an exhibition of the grace and skill of some young native daughter.

Sports and pastimes of every possible kind are easily available. The country around Victoria abounds in pheasants, quail, partridge and other game birds, and the variety of the Hungarian variety were introduced some years ago and are now fairly abundant. Deer and the native grouse, both blue and willow, are to be found in the bush, and there are black bear and panthers within a few miles of the town. Anglers find waters teeming with salmon, trout, cod and other fish. Games of every kind from horse racing through all the long list which includes golf, cricket, football, tennis, hockey, basketball, lacrosse, and others can be indulged in all the year round, each in its proper season, though the mild winters almost annual the seasonal restriction.

And this brings us at last to Victoria's greatest pleasure of all, her climate. I do not propose to weary the reader with statistical figures proving this point, but evidences are multiplying of people who come to Victoria to live in and enjoy this feature, not only from other parts of Canada, and the United States but also from Great Britain, from China, from Australia, and even from New Zealand, which has no mean climate herself.

Do You Remember?

Conducted by Herbert Kent

The Irish jaunting car that was once a familiar conveyance on our streets? It carried eight passengers, six being seated back to back. I do not remember who imported it, but it came into the possession of Mr. Flint, a real estate agent, and was bought from him by Mr. Rose and was finally dismantled at Weston's Carriage Works.

The camels that were imported into British Columbia in the year 1863 by Frank Laumister and others? They were brought in for use on the Cariboo roads, having been purchased from the United States Government in Arizona, but were found useless, the roads being too hard on their feet. Twenty head were imported and brought overland to Kamloops. Henry Ingram, who was also interested in the importation, later took up a ranch at Grand Prairie and lost several of the camels to his farm, and in the year 1881 there were three females left and they gradually died off.

When a man was tried at the Victoria Assizes on a charge of sand-bagging and robbery? The jury acquitted him in the face of the strongest evidence, and Sir Matthew Begbie, the presiding judge, in ordering the prisoner's release from custody, recommended him to sand-bag the jury who had acquitted him.

Who in Victoria remembers a concert given by a Mr. White, from Puget Sound, assisted by William Leigh and Dr. Johnson, and held in the Mess Room, within the Fort York, in April, 1887. One of the songs named on the programme was "Pat's Curiosity Shop," a laughable, dirty describing as in the shop a greater variety of oddities and rarities than the whole of Britain. Musicians contained. As is usual with this type of song, there were many

MR. SAKER DIES OF WAR HURTS

VETERAN OF TWO CONFLICTS WAS SEVERELY GASED IN GREAT WAR

Had to Give Up Appointment in China Owing to Breakdown of Health

The late Mr. Henry Matland Saker, whose funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon, was a son of the late William J. Saker, of Dartmouth, N.S. He was born in London, England, forty-seven years ago and was educated at Bedford College, England.

As a young man he went to South Africa, and saw service in the war, being attached to Page's Horse. In the Great War he was severely gassed when attached to the Seventh Battalion in the engagements round Ypres, and from that experience he never fully recovered. After the war he went out to China, and was employed with a commercial firm at Shanghai. He was, however, obliged to return to Canada owing to ill health, due to war service, from the effects of which he suffered for some time.

In addition to his widow, at the family residence, 1022 Southgate Street, he is survived by a son and three sisters. The brothers are R. Saker, of Shanghai, China, and Russell Saker, of North Vancouver, and the sisters Mrs. F. T. Saker, of Peking, China; Mrs. Rowley, of Singapore, Straits Settlements, and Mrs. K. Watson, of Berkhamshead, England.

The funeral is timed for 2:30 o'clock from the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, corner Quadra and Broughton Streets, Kev. Canon Hinchcliffe will officiate and interment will be made in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

Obituary

PARSELL—The funeral of Thomas Parsell took place from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel yesterday afternoon, Rev. S. A. Fraser officiating at the chapel, and Rev. J. G. G. Bompas at the graveside. The hymns sung were "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Abide With Me." Many friends attended and numerous beautiful floral offerings were received. The following are the pallbearers: Messrs. A. Schroeder, O. Barton, W. E. Nachtrieb, James Thompson, J. W. McGregor and H. Cadicut. The remains were laid to rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

FOSTER—There passed away in this city Ruth Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Foster, of Wellington Road, aged nine years and born in Victoria. The remains are at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, from where the funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, proceeding to St. Michael's Church, Royal Oak, where service will be conducted at 3:45. Interment will be made in St. Michael's Cemetery.

Riches

The mass of men too much esteem Bright gold, which buys the gauds of earth, And in their greed they lose the gleam Of beauty and the glow of mirth.

One test, and one alone, can prove The worth of that which they make their goal. Does this fine minted stuff they love Bring deep contentment to the soul?

For riches men will toil and die. They leave the lovely light of day To gain the shining gold to buy Rare treasures or to hoard away.

For some a golden fountain flows. While some vast lands, rare gems control; But none is rich unless he knows A deep contentment in his soul.

LENIN NOW MUMMY

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—A Mail and Empire special from Paris says:

The brain of the late Nicolai Lenin, the Bolshevik leader, has been cut into thirty-one thousand slices and particles. For two and a half years the entire scientific staff of the Lenin Institute at Moscow, under the direction of the famous German savant, Professor Otto Voght, has been busy with the task of dissecting, analyzing and preserving the grey matter of the apostle of Communism.

In this case of the body of the dead leader, a secret method of embalming was evolved that is now recognized to insure the perfect preservation of the mummy for several centuries.

At a young man he went to South Africa, and saw service in the war, being attached to Page's Horse. In the Great War he was severely gassed when attached to the Seventh Battalion in the engagements round Ypres, and from that experience he never fully recovered. After the war he went out to China, and was employed with a commercial firm at Shanghai. Mr. Hoover Inaugurates Campaign With Strong Statement of His Policy

STANFORD UNIVERSITY STADIUM, PALO ALTO, CAL., Aug. 11.—Herbert Hoover accepted the Republican presidential nomination today with a reiteration of his stand against the repeal of the Prohibition amendment or any modification of enforcement that would constitute nullification, and with the exposition of a threefold agricultural reform program.

The nominee repeated that he stands for "the efficient enforcement" of the laws enacted under the prohibition amendment, and added that "whoever is chosen president has under his oath the solemn duty to pursue this course."

For relief of the farmer, he outlined a program embracing tariff protection and increased and cheaper transportation, supported by Federal financial aid in building up farm-cowles and controlled corporations to take care of crop surpluses.

In addition, he declared vigorously for religious tolerance, inviolable against corruption in public offices. He struck a note of idealism in the relation of government to the people, and issued a call to the women and the youth of the country to contribute their enthusiasm to the success of the American experiment in democracy.

PROHIBITION

Speaking to a vast throng in this athletic bowl, and to countless in an unseen radio audience over the country, Mr. Hoover said the stand on prohibition without making direct reference to Alfred E. Smith, his Democratic opponent, or to the "New York Governor's declaration for liberalization of the Volstead Enforcement Act."

"Modification of the enforcement of prohibition would permit that which the constitution forbids is nullification," he said.

"This the American people will not countenance."

Repeating that he did not favor repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the Republican nominee said no law was to be criticized for seeking to change the constitution by legal means, but added that the Republican party denied the right of anyone to seek to destroy the purposes of the constitution by indirect means.

Recognizing the abuses of enforcement under existing enabling acts, Mr. Hoover said these must be remedied after "an organized searching investigation of facts and causes" had pointed the way to the wise method of correcting them.

The Republican candidate disposed of the prohibition question in the space of a few minutes, devoting approximately 100 words to its discussion. To the farm aid question he gave more than one-sixth of his address of more than 8,000 words.

FARM RELIEF

Declaring that agriculture presented "the most urgent economic problem in our nation today," Mr. Hoover said the Republican party farm plank constituted "a definite plan of relief" needing only "the detailed elaboration of legislation and appropriations to put into force."

Aside from Federal aid to farm stabilization corporations, he proposed tariff increases to give agriculture the same protection as other industries, and the development of inland waterways, including the Mississippi River and Great Lakes.

He said the Republican party proposed to put into force "a definite plan of relief" needing only "the detailed elaboration of legislation and appropriations to put into force."

STANFORD UNIVERSITY STADIUM, PALO ALTO, CAL., Aug. 11.—Herbert Hoover accepted the Republican presidential nomination today with a reiteration of his stand against the repeal of the Prohibition amendment or any modification of enforcement that would constitute nullification, and with the exposition of a threefold agricultural reform program.

The nominee repeated that he stands for "the efficient enforcement" of the laws enacted under the prohibition amendment, and added that "whoever is chosen president has under his oath the solemn duty to pursue this course."

For relief of the farmer, he outlined a program embracing tariff protection and increased and cheaper transportation, supported by Federal financial aid in building up farm-cowles and controlled corporations to take care of crop surpluses.

In addition, he declared vigorously for religious tolerance, inviolable against corruption in public offices. He struck a note of idealism in the relation of government to the people, and issued a call to the women and the youth of the country to contribute their enthusiasm to the success of the American experiment in democracy.

PROHIBITION

Speaking to a vast throng in this athletic bowl, and to countless in an unseen radio audience over the country, Mr. Hoover said the stand on prohibition without making direct reference to Alfred E. Smith, his Democratic opponent, or to the "New York Governor's declaration for liberalization of the Volstead Enforcement Act."

"Modification of the enforcement of prohibition would permit that which the constitution forbids is nullification," he said.

"This the American people will not countenance."

WELSH LANGUAGE BEING ANGLICIZED

Death of Properly Trained Teachers in Schools Contributing Factor

LONDON.—(By mail).—The report of the Departmental Committee set up in 1925 by the President of the Board of Education "to inquire into the position of the Welsh language and to advise as to its promotion in the educational system of Wales" has been issued under the title "Welsh in Education and Life."

Statistically the use of Welsh is not found by the committee to have diminished in the last thirty years, but in certain districts the Anglicizing process had steadily advanced, with the result that the committee considered "less respectable" than English, particularly among the young women, and this is attributed to the comparative neglect of Welsh by local education authorities; to the fact that Welsh has not been given sufficient attention in the training of teachers; and to the disadvantages under which Welsh-speaking children have suffered in examinations for scholarships or for entrance to secondary schools.

The committee also believe that the attempt to mix English and Welsh in the schools has largely failed owing to the introduction of English at too early an age, with the result that in one district at the leaving age, after eight or nine years of schooling, the children are not able to speak or write freely either their own language or English. "Of this same area it is stated that the so-called area is spoken by the teachers, a mongrel tongue, being neither Welsh nor English, but a mixture of the two, or when it is fairly free from English is 'a debased type of dialect'."

The traditional defences of the language, the committee admit, have been seriously weakened in the last fifty years by improved communications, and the committee look on the "present policy of the British Broadcasting Corporation as one of the most serious menaces to the life of the Welsh language."

Changes would not have been so serious if the language had been given its due place in education, and "the key to the whole situation," it is stated, "is the element of school."

There is a dearth of properly trained teachers of Welsh in the schools, and the committee believe that much might be done by the training colleges and the training departments of the universities to fit the teachers in the respective colleges, the report says, "must be places where the Welsh language, culture, traditions and literature are an integral part of the curriculum, and that more importance be attached to Welsh in the examination for entrance to secondary schools."

Teachers.—That in secondary schools, pupils with a good colloquial knowledge of Welsh should, for Welsh lessons, be segregated, and that modifications be made in the time devoted to arithmetic, history, geography, and nature study, so as to allow more time for Welsh.

To Churches and Theological Colleges.—That a wider use of Welsh as the medium of instruction be made at theological colleges. That those churches which have no colleges in Wales should arrange for the purpose, and that more importance be attached to Welsh in the examination for entrance to secondary schools.

General.—That the act compelling the use of English in Welsh colleges, that made the use of Welsh as the medium of instruction be made at theological colleges. That those churches which have no colleges in Wales should arrange for the purpose, and that more importance be attached to Welsh in the examination for entrance to secondary schools.

a study of problems connected with bilingual teaching be included.

To Education Authorities.—That more adequate means for the teaching of Welsh be devised and due co-ordination from stage to stage secured. That the committee set up a curriculum and schemes sub-committee for primary education, consisting of members of the inspection of the Board of Education, to examine periodically schemes for the teaching of Welsh, and Welsh books and apparatus. For secondary schools, the committee should arrange for the immediate attention of authorities to the teaching of Welsh, and Welsh books and apparatus. COWICHAN-NEWCASTLE
DUNCAN, Aug. 11.—The result of the official count of ballots for Cowichan-Newton, which has been in progress under the direction of Mr. W. E. Akenhead, returning officer, for the past two days, has been to increase the majority of Mr. C. F. Davie over Mr. Sam Guthrie by an additional seventy-two votes, giving a total majority for the Conservative candidate of 753.

The absentee vote added 183 to Mr. Davie's total, while Mr. Guthrie secured an additional 111, and Mr. St. George, Gray seven absentee votes. Twenty-six absentee votes were rejected by the returning officer for various reasons. The following figures are the official returns for the constituency:

IN VICTORIA
The official count of the ballots cast at the recent provincial election for the candidates for the city of Victoria is still in progress. It is anticipated that the count will not be completed until Tuesday of this week.

During yesterday afternoon the ballots cast in the city of Vancouver and vicinity are still on their way to returning officers now engaged in making their official final counts. None of the returning officers in the Vancouver district expects to make his final return before next week. The official check of ballots in North Vancouver riding has been adjourned until Tuesday morning by Returning Officer J. D. Gilliam, and by that time Mr. Gilliam hopes to have on hand the small number of ballots to come from Sechelt and Clinton. The absentee ballot check so far gives Louet 164 and Mackenzie 119. Totals for the two candidates to date are: Louet 2,458, Mackenzie 2,492, giving Captain Mackenzie a majority of 34.

In the event of the ballots yet to be received reducing the lead of Captain Mackenzie, a complete recount of the ballots may be asked, reports Mr. Jack Louet, Conservative candidate.

There are many good stories in Dame Clara Butt's life story, just published, but the best thing of all, in my estimation, is contained in a letter to her from the one and only George Bernard Shaw.

It appears that the famous singer, who in private life is Mrs. Kennerly Rumford, had asked him to write a foreword to the book.

"Good gracious, I'd never dare!" was his characteristic reply. "And anyway, what could I say?"

"Witnessed her debut as Orfeo, and which in turn will not appreciate her. To this the editor added: 'Novels are fiction, you know, and novels, therefore, fiction writers.'"

City & District

To Visit City—Mr. Harry A. Scott, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Liverpool, England, will pay a visit here, in the course of his Dominion tour, on September 7.

Pistol Duel—The Seattle Police revolver team will come to Victoria on August 31 to shoot against the Victoria Police team. The Seattle police plan to make the occasion an excursion. A steamer will be chartered. Some 500 people are expected to come over from Seattle.

British Sailors Entertained—The Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, Victoria Unit No. 12, and the Pro Patria branch of the Canadian Legion acted as hosts to members of the visiting British cruisers, H.M.S. Despatch and H.M.S. Durban, at smoking concerts held last evening. A large number of the visiting tars were present at each of the club rooms.

Ward Two, Spanish, Show—A committee meeting of the Ward Two Spanish Cottage Gardeners Association will be held at the residence of Mr. F. Crowe, Douglas Street, tomorrow evening, to complete arrangements for the show, to be held on Saturday next. Information may be obtained, and also entry forms, from the secretary, Mr. W. L. Jewell, 3710 Spanish Road, or forms will be mailed on request.

Car Accident—Responding to a call to attend a grass fire on Erie Street at 10 o'clock this morning, a fire truck, proceeding along Government Street, near Bastion Street, tore the doors off a street car that had just stopped and opened the doors to let off passengers. The conductor apparently had not heard the street car strike as the engine tore down the street. The passengers appeared to be badly frightened.

Seven Fires—The city fire department responded to seven fire alarms yesterday. Most of them were for grass fires. Lieutenant Jack Crowther was slightly injured at the fire on Prior Street. The other fires were: 9:45 a.m., bush fire, Cook and Dallas; 10:45 a.m., Erie Street, bush fire; 12:16 p.m., 221 Skinner Street, roof fire; 12:41 p.m., Prior Street, grass fire; 1:12 p.m., corner Rudin and Camosun Street, roof fire; 1:17 p.m., roof fire, 1136 Mason Street.

Tourists Fly Here—For the first time yesterday the aerial passenger service from Seattle was used by bona fide tourists for prompt travel to this city. When the Air Crafts Guild party of Chicago, numbering about 100, reached Seattle yesterday, en route here, they learned of the existence of the service, and two of the members immediately decided to fly to Victoria, a course which was adopted. This party will be the largest of the ten to come to this city this summer.

Enthusiast for City—Mr. W. W. Chaffer, publisher of newspapers in California, and formerly publisher of The Seattle Post-Intelligencer, arrived at the Empress Hotel last evening in the course of a motor tour from San Francisco, where he now makes his home. Having recently crossed to Europe with Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Bulchard, he visited them at "Benvenuto," immediately on arrival.

SEE AROUSES CANNES' IDE
Cannes, France, is all fussed over the visit and subsequent report made by Miss Ethel Mannin, an English novelist. According to a Monte Carlo report she asked the local press to note her arrival, supplied her photograph and said she was looking for local color for future novels. Since then she has written two articles attacking the Riviera, declaring that fine weather was most unusual, and that the region was "inhabited by old maids and uninteresting folk of that sort."

A Cannes newspaper writer rushed to the defence of the climate, and added: "We hope that this novelist will keep away from a place which obviously she does not appreciate, and which in turn will not appreciate her. To this the editor added: 'Novels are fiction, you know, and novels, therefore, fiction writers.'"

Important Discoveries Reported by Scientists

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Important discoveries of fossils of prehistoric carnivore in Mongolia are reported by Roy Chapman Andrews, leader of the Fourth Central Asiatic Expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, in a letter to Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, director of the museum. The expedition seeks primarily the "cradle of the human race."

The letter contains an account of how Dr. Andrews was wounded early in May, when his revolver was accidentally discharged while he was attempting to shoot an antelope.

Among the more important finds reported in Dr. Andrews' letter to Dr. Osborn are a femur and canine tooth of the Eudimorphodon, a prehistoric of the Eudimorphodon and other fossils which indicate that "we are fast getting a good collection from the scene area, the earliest part of the age of mammals."

The first Eudimorphodon tooth was found by Dr. Andrews on June 1, 1923. In September of that year, Dr. Osborn found another. The Eudimorphodon, Dr. Simpson said, should resemble a hornless rhinoceros although there was no relation between them. With the femur found by Dr. Andrews it may be possible to reconstruct a skeleton at least to fix the approximate size of the Eudimorphodon, it was declared.

The Andrewsarchus, Dr. Simpson explained, was the largest land carnivore that ever lived, having been larger than the Kodiak bear, which is the largest living carnivore.

It was said to be about six feet two inches tall and from twelve to fifteen feet in length.

LETTER QUOTED
Dr. Andrews' letter, which was dated, Shara Murun (Mongolia), May 3, 1928, in camp, follows in part:

"We are in the midst of our daily sandstorm, and the dust drifts in so thickly upon my paper that it is difficult to write. We have been here for twelve days, and never have I seen such infernal weather in Mongolia. Every day such terrific sand gales that we only sit in the tents while a yellow cloud swirls about us. Everything is a mass of sand—guns, cameras, beds—we are simply smothered in it. Nevertheless, we have managed to put in some hours working, and, in spite of the storms, have discovered some good things. Mac Young found a remarkable Ulanchoer skull, quite unlike anything Granger or Thompson know. A river-bed deposit has proved to be a rich quarry, and bird bones, carnivore skulls and many other things are plentiful.

"We got through the big area without trouble. We spent one day near Terlin's place while I visited the Mongol prince, Sumit Wang, whose province I want to pasture our camels next winter. Then we came straight here. The caravan of 120 camels arrived on the same day that we did.

"After getting the party at work I made a five-day exploration westward to find a suitable trail for the caravan to follow. Then I returned and got the camels started two days ago (May 11). They will go on as fast as possible and we will overtake them. We'll spend another ten days in this region, and then start west. In the meantime I expect to explore the country between here and Iren Dabasu, and will leave this letter at the telegraph station, hoping some one will take it out.

RICH SEDIMENTS
A short exploration toward Iren Dabasu has shown that there are great areas of beautifully exposed sediments, and that they contain rich deposits of fossils. Probably there is enough for an entire season's work. We will stop here again this September and work more, but I want to get started westward soon.

"We are earlier in the field than in any previous year. Thus far, all my plans have gone like clockwork. I laid out the whole programme for getting away last January, and the machinery moved exactly to specifications. We were very fortunate in every way.

"The camels are in fine condition. I have made the caravan leader. All the staff is keen, and we have a happy family in camp. This fortnight has been very trying because of the continual sandstorms, but they have stood it well. I know of few things more nerve-racking. However, all of us will be glad to start west. The deposits here are very rich, indeed, and we feel quite sure that they will warrant a party working here all next summer. We will almost certainly leave some men here.

"This quarry is particularly important because apparently it gives a complete exhibit of the fauna of the region. Rodentia, insectivores and other small things are as well preserved as are the larger specimens. A fine prehistoric tooth of Andrewsarchus has turned up. The quarry is exhausted. There seems to be weeks of work in it still waiting to be done. We'll have another go at it in September.

"You will not hear from us again till about September."

MCKINLEY SAILS FOR THE ORIENT
Arriving from Seattle at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the American Mail liner President McKinley, Capt. R. E. Carey, sailed from Rithet piers for the Orient an hour later.

Passengers aboard included 150 first cabin and over 150 steerage, the largest list sailing from here on a President liner for some time. There were sixty missionaries on the vessel bound for China.

SUPT. CHILDERS' VERSION OF HOW ACCIDENT MIGHT HAVE BEEN AVOIDED, OTHERS DISAGREE WITH HIM.

STANDING at a point which overlooks Lock 6 of the new Welland Canal at Thorold, the artist drew the above graphic reconstruction of the appalling accident which took a toll of eight dead and which resulted in injuries to seventeen others. One of the big locomotive cranes is seen still in place on the top of the canal wall while its mate, which was working with it in the placing of a twenty-ton steel post, is pictured after it went hurtling over the concrete side and as it sent the big 300-ton steel lock gate crashing down to the canal floor. Workmen are seen falling from the gate before it touched the ground. Some were crushed almost beyond recognition. As the locomotive crane toppled, it let loose clouds of smoke and steam which, coupled with the terrific crash which resulted as the steelwork buckled on the concrete, served to guide rescue workers to the scene in record time. Below and to the right are (top) William Merkley, who was in charge of the derrick which toppled over and fell, and (below) Sam Jones, operator of the derrick which stood the strain of the collapse. The diagram is self-explanatory.—Drawing copyright, 1928, by The Toronto Daily Star.

Englishman Has Liking For Comfortable Clothes

Conventions in Dressing Shot to Pieces by War, and Men Now Cling to What They Like Best—Prince Sets Example

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The casual correct dress of the Englishman is made the subject of an article by Robert M. Collins, a special correspondent of The Associated Press in London.

Mr. Collins begins by commenting on the erroneous idea that the Prince of Wales is "by choice a natty dresser" and goes on to explain that His Royal Highness, like any Englishman, "dresses up only as far as public opinion expects of him."

Describing the dress of the Prince on the occasion of his first appearance as a speaker at a luncheon just before his departure on his memorable tour of India, Mr. Collins says: "The black-out and away and grey trousers the young man wore on that occasion had seen such service that the majority of New Yorkers would have sent them to the dust can. His jewelry consisted of a large gold seal ring, probably an heirloom, and a worn silver watchchain which might have been borrowed from one of the under gardeners in the palace grounds and might have cost nearly five dollars."

CONVENTIONS LOST
Mr. Collins then writes: "The war shoe to pieces most of the hide-bound conventions of men's dressing in England, as it did many other things, and they never came back."

Western Sheepmen In Strong Position

Permanent Feeling of Confidence Everywhere in Evidence—Big B.C. Development

"Never have I noticed such a permanent feeling of confidence as seems to exist among sheepmen all through the Western Provinces this year," states W. H. J. Twiss, of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, who has just returned from his sixth annual western tour, during which he motored all through the principal range areas of British Columbia and Southern Alberta, as well as visiting practically the whole of the sheep farming areas of all four provinces. "Not only are the sheepmen confident, but I found the same feeling in respect to leading banking and railway officials of the towns and cities. Good crops and good prices have had a wonderful effect on Prairie and British Columbia conditions, and livestock is coming back rapidly."

Mr. Twiss reported a continual trend toward mixed farming. Sheep are now considered to work in well with grain farming, where the property has been fenced. From 100 to 150 ewes are being kept on many half sections, which, owing to the abundance of waste feed, their feeding cost is very small. The sheep have been found very useful in keeping Summer fallows clean and in helping to solve the weed problem.

"Undoubtedly the most spectacular sheep development has taken place in the northwestern corner of the province, where the sheep are now considered to work in well with grain farming, where the property has been fenced. From 100 to 150 ewes are being kept on many half sections, which, owing to the abundance of waste feed, their feeding cost is very small. WOOL PROSPECT IN MARITIMES

Material Increase in Values Expected by Time Shearing Starts

"Sheep shearing in the Maritime Provinces will not be general before the first week in June," stated G. E. O'Brien, general manager of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, who has just returned from a trip through Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. "Down there farmers follow the custom which prevails in the Prairie Provinces and usually start shearing after Spring field work is completed, in contrast to Ontario and British Columbia, where a portion of the clip is removed in the early Spring. On this account I found little activity in wool in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Local prices mentioned for wool were around 25 or 26 cents, but by the time the clip actually starts moving, there should be a material strengthening in the local Maritime market, as selling values of the wool already received by the Canadian Co-operative in Ontario are substantially higher than these figures."

"Moreover," added Mr. O'Brien, "there is nothing in the wool situation to indicate any falling off in demand, particularly for quarter blood or three-eighths, the two grades which make up the bulk of the Canadian clip."

Mr. O'Brien reported steady progress in the sheep industry in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Lambs from this part of the country are becoming better and more favorably known on the Boston and Montreal markets as a result of the improvement in production. This meat is particularly well received by the tourist traffic.

The manager of the Wool Growers also reported a rapid increase in agricultural interest generally in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The provincial governments have adopted the agricultural representative system, placing experienced agriculturists in different parts of the provinces who will direct the work of the Provincial Departments of Agriculture and be of assistance in an advisory capacity to local farmers. In Nova Scotia this work is in charge of Professor Longley, and in New Brunswick under Mr. A. E. MacLaurin.

SEARCH FOR DINOSAURS

The trustees of the British Museum announce that a valuable work in scientific research, which has added considerably to knowledge of fossil remains, is to be checked owing to lack of funds to carry it through. In 1924 the trustees sent an expedition to the Tendaguru district of Tanganyika Territory, which is particularly rich in fossil reptiles. As a result of the work done under various leaders (one of whom died of malaria) over 500 cases of specimens have been received at the Museum, and much has been done in mapping out the geology of the Tendaguru district. It is desired that the line extending westwards of Tendaguru towards Lake Nyassa should be explored to ascertain the dinosaurian and other fossil remains occur along the course of the ancient river. The cost of the expedition has been met partly from the reserve fund which had been accumulated by the trustees and partly from a special fund to which well-wishers had subscribed in 1924. The former fund is low and the latter will soon be exhausted, without further help the expedition must be brought to an end next December. About £3,000 is the usual cost.—London Times.

place in British Columbia. There, farmers have doubled their sheep population in the last four years, and the grazing commissioner, T. P. McKenzie, assured me that there was room for 2,000,000 sheep, or more than fifty per cent of the present total for all Canada, in the interior of his province alone."

Unfortunately, according to this official of the Canadian Co-operative, the range lamb crop at the West this year, due to extreme weather conditions at breeding time last fall, did not run over fifty-five per cent, but among the flocks of the West it was well up to the average. The wool coming from this part of the country this year is as good as any Western clip he has ever seen, being clean and bright. Of the total Western clip the Co-operative expects to handle about 300,000 pounds from British Columbia, 750,000 pounds from the flocks of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and 1,250,000 pounds from Alberta this season.

Women's Institutes of Vancouver Island

ROYAL OAK

The monthly meeting of the local branch of the Women's Institute was held on Wednesday afternoon at St. Michael's Church Hall, with a fair attendance. Mrs. Pinhorn presiding. A suitable place, and dates for the postponed picnic was under discussion, and, Monday, August 27, at Cordova Bay, was decided upon. Arrangements for transportation were left in the hands of the president. An attractive sports programme was outlined, in which grown-ups as well as children will have a part. Prizes will be given in each class, a number being promised by the members present. The sum of $5 was voted for the Solarium tag day in answer to a letter from Mrs. Campbell, secretary of Victoria Institute, which is in charge of arrangements. All were in favor of again giving prize money to the pupils in the senior and junior grades of the local school making the best progress during the year. The prizes for last term were won by Ben MacLeod, senior grade, and Nan Smith in the junior grade. Mrs. Pinhorn reported a suggestion, made by the school principal, that a see-saw be placed in the playground for the use of the smaller children. It was decided to include a swing and have the bill for material sent to the institute. Certain objectionable advertising matter appearing in magazines was brought to the notice of the meeting and the delegates to a letter from Mrs. Campbell, secretary of Victoria Institute, which is in charge of arrangements. LUMBER INDUSTRY SHOWS STRENGTH

Pacific Northwest Mills Report Production is Below Orders With Active Demand

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 11.—Growing strength in the position of the Pacific Northwest lumber industry in the markets of the country is shown in reports received by the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, according to announcement here today. With demand active, 153 major mills in Washington, Oregon and British Columbia report production below orders. The orders received by this group of mills are 9.68 per cent in excess of current production; their shippers exceeded production by 4.68 per cent.

Figures received by the association show a substantial reduction in the amount of lumber produced during the thirty-one weeks of 1928 as compared with the same period in 1927, it was stated. Production reports received from 210 major mills of the Douglas Fir region show that for the week ending August 4 these operations manufactured 170,973,990 board feet of lumber. This total, according to records for each reporting mill compiled by the association, is 17.7 per cent less than the operating capacity of these same mills, which is 207,778,461 board feet. During the thirty-one weeks of 1928 to date, the lumber manufactured in these plants has been 18 per cent less than normal operating capacity, and 6 per cent less than their average weekly production during 1927. Included in the 210 mills was practically every lumber plant cutting 50,000 board feet or more daily in Washington, Oregon and British Columbia.

Production, orders and shipments were reported to the association from 153 mills for the week ended August 4, as follows:

Week August 4
In Board Feet:
Production 146,058,801
Orders 160,197,029
Shipments 138,446,947

DETAILS FROM 126 MILLS
Orders totaling 144,812,506 feet, as reported by 126 mills, show the following sources:

Board Feet
Rail Trade 63,751,122
Domestic Cargo 43,732,408
Export 25,864,749
Local 11,464,221
Shipments totaling 138,446,947 feet, as reported by 126 mills, show the following destinations:

Board Feet
Rail Trade 149,355,053
Domestic Cargo 44,949,150
Export 18,032,472
Local 11,464,221
Undilled orders totaling 461,764,487 feet, as reported by 126 mills, were segregated as follows:

Board Feet
Rail Trade 169,355,053
Domestic Cargo 153,992,090
Export 138,415,636

Reports from 100 identical mills show that during 1928 to date orders have exceeded production by 11.12 per cent, and shipments have exceeded production by 9.78 per cent. During the corresponding period of 1927, the orders obtained by these mills exceeded their production by 10.47 per cent and their shipments exceeded production by 2.53 per cent.

BUILDING CONTRACTS IN U. S. INCREASING

Reports Received by West Coast Lumbermen's Association Are Encouraging

SEATTLE, Aug. 11.—Building contracts awarded in thirty-seven states representing about 91 per cent of the total construction of the country, broke all previous June records, according to information received by the West Coast Lumbermen's Association here. Construction contemplated, measured by June building permits, shows a gain of 16.8 as compared with May, 1928, and a 41.3 per cent increase over June, 1927. New England States and the Central West show the greatest percentage of gain as compared with May. "The situation in the Middle West is good and still improving," according to a letter received during the week by the association from Ray Yarnell, editor of Capper's Farmer and a recognized farm authority. In commenting on the agricultural condition in the four States of Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma and Nebraska, Mr. Yarnell states: "The situation in Kansas is, on the whole, the most favorable since 1914. The July estimate is that the wheat crop will be the second largest in the history of the state with a total of 168,000,000 bushels. It is possible that this total may be slightly exceeded due to yields running higher than anticipated. The wheat is of uniformly good quality, most of it testing sixty pounds or better. Harvest is nearing completion."

"The crop condition in Nebraska generally is good. A wheat crop of more than sixty million bushels is forecast. A corn crop of 231 million bushels is predicted based on condition July 1, which since has materially improved. The United States summary of eighteen principal crops, July 1, showed Nebraska with a standing of 101.1 per cent of the ten-year average. "Texas and Oklahoma, on which little statistical information is available, are reported as being in very good condition as regards major crops. The United States figures on eighteen important crops give Texas a rank of 92.7 and Oklahoma a rank of 93.3 per cent of the ten-year average, as of July 1. Throughout all this territory the warm weather of July, still continuing, accompanied by sufficient moisture generally to keep crops developing, has made for very definite improvement and increased yield. As a result, all the statistics I have given you are under rather than overstated."

"Texas has a cotton acreage of more than eighteen million acres as compared with sixteen million acres last year. Condition of the Texas cotton crop, which also fairly well reflects the Oklahoma crop, is quite good and in fact better than in some other portions of the cotton belt."

Capetown, South Africa, will build a block of offices and a six-story building auxiliary to its city hall.

Of 1,002 cases admitted to the King Edward Maternity Hospital, at Perth, Australia, last year, only two were fatal.

Naval Wedding at Cathedral Is a Brilliant Society Affair

One of the most brilliant of society weddings was witnessed here yesterday by hundreds of invited guests as well as a large crowd of interested spectators who thronged Cathedral Hill, when at 1:30 o'clock High Rev. C. D. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia united in matrimony, Dola Frances, youngest daughter of the late Hon. James Dunsmyth, former Premier and Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and Mrs. Dunsmyth, of Hatley Park, Victoria, and Lieutenant-Commander Henry James Francis Cavendish, D.S.C., R.N., of "Swallowclift," Salisbury, England, eldest son of the late Captain Henry Cavendish, R.N., and of the late Lady Harriet Cavendish. The ceremony took place at Christ Church Cathedral.

For the occasion the cathedral had been lavishly decorated with masses of summer flowers by friends of the bride, the color scheme being of white and pale pink. An arch of stocks, palest pink and white asters and gypsophila spanned the chancel steps, the rails being banked with white asters, stocks, pale pink gladioli, and clematis. While the pulpit was hidden beneath a feathery mass of gypsophila and white carnations. Wilburham lilies and asters with clematis intermingled were used in decoration of the font, while on the altar were white gladioli and white carnations.

To the strains of the bridal chorus, the bride entered the church with her brother-in-law, Major A. Selden Humphreys, D.S.O., who gave her in marriage. She was an exquisite picture in her lovely bridal gown of ivory lace embroidered in pearls, fashioned on long simple lines with long sleeves. A court train edged with Point D'Alencon lace, hung from the shoulders, and from her head, arranged in simple cap effect hung her beautiful veil of Point D'Alencon lace, an heirloom of the bridegroom's family. Her only ornament was a strand of beautiful pearls. Her bouquet was a shower of bridal roses, lily of the valley and maidenhair fern.

CHARMING BRIDESMAIDS
Miss Laura Audain and Miss Victoria Bromley, nieces of the bride, were charming bridesmaids in frocks of diaphanous hyacinth blue tulle, the skirts made in three deep flounces, the bodices plain, with a deep tuck above the waistline. The long sleeves of the tulle were finished with bell-shape ends, and girdles of velvet ribbon in the same shade as the frocks were the only trimming. Their drooping picture hats were of crinoline straw edged with tulle, and matched their frocks, a soft blue rose trimming the brim at one side. Four tiny bridesmaids, Joan and Jill Humphreys and Joan Cudemore and Anne Williamson, a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Williamson, of Montreal, were in short frocks of the same blue tulle and hats of blue crinoline straw of quaint poke bonnet shape. Each of the six attendants carried a bouquet of delphinium tied with silver ribbon. Little Dornel de Trafford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph de Trafford, was a very fascinating page in a little blue silk velvet suit and befrilled silk shirt.

ers were Captain Carew Martin, Mr. W. Maurice Carmichael, Mr. Jack Chaplin and Mr. George Barton. Both the groom and his best man were in uniform, and a large number of uniformed officers of the visiting cruisers were present.

RECEPTION AT HATLEY PARK
Several hundreds of guests were present at the reception which followed the wedding ceremony, Hatley Park being an ideal setting for such a gathering. The great hall was massed with flowers, lilies and gladioli banking the fireplace, while tall standard baskets of deep cream gladioli, palms and greenery were used throughout the rooms.

The bride and groom received their guests in the drawing-room, standing under a wide arched canopy composed entirely of pink and mauve sweet peas and maidenhair fern. Tall baskets of pink and mauve gladioli and sweet peas were at either side and carried out the charming effect of the pastels. Mrs. Dunsmyth was charming in a lovely gown of black lace and a hat to match, trimmed with grey. She was assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Hope, Mrs. Maurice Wingfield and Mrs. A. S. Humphreys. During the afternoon an orchestra played selections in the house, while the band also played on the lawn.

On the terrace overlooking the gardens the wedding breakfast was served under a wide marquee, the refreshment tables being arranged with silver bowls of pink roses and carnations. The handsome five-tier wedding cake on the bride's table was decorated with roses and lily of the valley, and was cut by the bride with her husband's sword. After toasts to the bride and bridegroom, Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. Cavendish left for their honeymoon, which will be spent motoring in California. For traveling the bride wore a very smart ensemble of beige and brown figuredorgette and a beige cloth coat trimmed with diagonal stitching of brown silk and a collar of brown sheared lamb. Her hat was a smart model of beige straw.

STAMPS CLOSELY GUARDED

Elaborate preparations were made to guard the rare stamps on exhibition in London in connection with the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain this year. The total value of the exhibits is estimated at more than $500,000. The insurance ran into five figures, and a number of detectives were instructed to be on constant watch. One displayed stamp, owned by Arthur Hind, is valued at $36,750. It is of the famous Ferrari collection, which took about three years to sell, and brought more than $2,000,000. Another pair, of the Mauritius Postoffice, are valued at $55,000. Some of the members of the association have stamp collections worth $250,000, and their joint collections would bring more than $1,000,000. One man gave $450,000 for a collection just to get five stamps he had been wanting for years.

"Sedentary words," said the college lecturer, "tend to lessen the endurance."
"In other words," said the smart student, "the more one sits the less he can stand."
"Exactly," retorted the lecturer, "and if one sits a great deal his standing is lost completely."

HOLLAND TURNS SEA INTO FARMS

Vast Scheme to Reclaim Half Million Acres Now Well Under Way

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Within thirty years an area of 552,504 acres—larger than that of Leicestershire—will have been added to the coast of Holland that is washed by the Zuider Zee.

A vast scheme is in progress to reclaim land now covered by sea to a depth of from six to sixteen feet, by means of an enclosing dyke, which will cut through eighteen and a half miles of water.

The total cost of the scheme is estimated at over $45,000,000.

Crisscrossing over the wide expanse of the Zuider Zee, as I have been during the last few days, writes the special correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, it is difficult to imagine that thirty years hence two-thirds of it will have disappeared in favor of productive agricultural land.

The great of Zealand—a lion battling bravely with the waves, with the words "I swim and keep my head above water"—breathes the whole spirit of Holland, but in this vast work of reclaiming the soil of the Zuider Zee, Holland is carrying the war into the enemy's camp on a scale never before attempted.

As many as 552,504 acres, which are now covered with salt water to a depth of from six to sixteen feet, are eventually to become arable land.

Washing against the protecting dykes, which will insure the permanence of this recovered country—for Holland is only winning back what the sea took some time before the thirteenth century—will be an inland lake, with an area of 285,000 acres.

This is to be called the Yssel Lake, because it will be the outlet of the River Yssel, a Rhine tributary, which now empties itself into the Zuider Zee.

I have sailed from Enkhuzen to Harlingen, across the neck of the Zuider Zee, which is proposed to strangle with an enclosing dyke. Already the process of strangulation is well forward. Here and there our steamer passed close to banks of concrete, risen mysteriously from the sea—section of the dyke that is to be, which an army of workmen, with floating cranes and laden barges, are busy multiplying and joining together.

The captain of the steamer told me that every week he sees some new island springing up to dispute the omnipotence of the sea. Indeed, the work is proceeding faster than was anticipated, and in three or four years, when all the sections are joined together, this great dyke will cut through eighteen and a half miles of water.

Then the Zuider Zee, as such, will be no more. Twenty-five sluice gates, having an aggregate breadth of 1,000 feet, will carry off waters of the Yssel Lake and keep it at the desired level. Along the top of the dyke, 100 feet in width, a road and a double track of railway will link up the province of North Holland and Friesland.

Once the sea has been enclosed the work of reclaiming the land will begin. This is by far the greater part of the task, for it involves the construction of more dykes—that protecting the two southern polders will be nearly twenty-two miles in length—Innumerable canals, quays and bridges, besides the erection of pumping and drainage machinery.

QUEEN AIDS WITH SHOW GOWN

Assisted by the Queen of England, workers of the famous Madame Tussaud's exhibition of wax figures have just completed the gown that will be worn by the wax figure of the Queen. She took a special interest in the making and inspected it before it was placed on the figure. Twenty thousand specially selected stones were used in making the embroidery, on which twelve skilled women worked two weeks. The dress material is fashioned from a beautiful golden fabric shot with old rose silk, embodying the rose, shamrock and thistle in its texture. The short sleeves are of gold lace and the long train is highly embroidered.

The Mirror of the Mode

By MARY MARSHALL

IT was Suzanne Lenglen, I believe, who popularized the sleeveless, one-piece dress for tennis wear. And now when we speak of a tennis frock it is precisely this type of frock that we have in mind. If every woman who wore frocks of this sort this summer really played tennis, then there would have to be tennis courts on every block or square to make room for them all. But it is with tennis frocks as it is with yachting ensembles and as it once was with golf capes. Everybody wears 'em!

pumped off the land six or seven years must elapse before the soil reaches its full cultivation value.

In designing the masonry work required for the bringing into being of this new country account has to be taken for the shrinkage of the soil. This is estimated at one foot, but in the course of years it may increase in certain places to more than three feet. The normal water level in these new polders will be about twenty-two feet below that of the adjoining Yssel Lake.

Holland expects to accomplish the whole of this work at a total cost of $45,333,333. As against this, the capital value of the newly-acquired land, when it will have reached its full cultivation value, is put at $42,500,000, and the capitalized worth of the Yssel Lake, as a fresh water reservoir, at $16,333,333.

At present, in districts surrounding the Zuider Zee, there is, in periods of drought, a scarcity of fresh water. The Yssel Lake will provide a sufficiency of good drinking water for cattle at all times, in a matter of great importance to an agricultural country like Holland. What a tremendous thing this scheme is for the future of the Netherlands will be better realized when it is recalled that the total area of the country is now about 9,240,000 acres. The effect of the Zuider Zee reclamations will be to increase that area by seven per cent.

Strange to say, those portions of the coast which lose their seaboard will gain improved shipping and transport facilities. Trade and industry generally will benefit, and for years employment will be provided for large numbers of workers of the adjoining Yssel Lake.

ENGLAND GOES TO CHURCH
Church going is being revived in England, and this year has seen larger congregations than for some time. On special days, such as Easter, there have been greater crowds than could get in, and at times the unusual sight of people waiting in line at St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey are seen in London. On a recent Sunday these churches were forced to turn away many people, many of whom found the same condition at a number of other churches. In London suburbs and even in the country a revived interest in church attendance is reported. Scotland reports large congregations in the cities.

C.P.S. LOSE TO VISITING AGGREGATION

Sound City Lacrosse Team Defeats Local Stickhandlers in Fast and Exciting Game

JOHNNY MATTHEWS' OUTSTANDING STAR

Playing a sterling brand of lacrosse behind their goalie, Derochie, veteran of many a battle, the Seattle stickhandlers gained revenge on the C.P.S. squad last evening at the Royal Athletic Park before a fair crowd of spectators, 4-1.

Johnny Matthews was the big nose for the visitors when he sagged the hump for three of their four encounters. His stickhandling was pretty to watch, and time after time he eluded the locals' defence only to be halted by J. Crossley, guarding Victoria's net.

Seattle scored their first goal in less than two minutes after the whistle sounded. Matthews took the ball from the face-off and romped through the local defence to register for the visitor's first goal half a minute after play. A minute later Mitchell went through for their second tally. The play then saw-sawed up and down the field, each team testing the goalies with some wicked shots. Nichol and Hill were banished from play, when they decided to settle their argument by fist means. In the second frame the play was even and as a result neither team scored.

GETS TWO MORE
Matthews, still in the limelight, added two more goals in the third session. His first came after eight minutes of play and his second two minutes later. The locals went on the offensive and bombarded the Seattle citadel, but failed to push the rubber past the veteran Derochie. Sweeney saved the C.P.S. from a whitewash just before the final whistle sounded, with a beautiful shot from close range.

Bruce Burton refereed and Leonard Tait and J. F. McMillan acted as timekeepers.

CYCLE MEET WILL BE HELD SEPT. 3

Three British Columbia Championships Will Be at Stake at Royal Athletic Park

With three British Columbia championships at stake, the Labor Day cycle meet, to be staged by the Victoria Cycling Club at the Royal Athletic Park, promises to be a great success. The five-mile, quarter-mile and one-mile junior for boys under seventeen years are the events in which the winners will be named as British Columbia champions.

Five other events are included on the programme, which promises to be in keeping with those of previous years. Entry forms may be secured from any local cycle dealer. Entries must be filed by 6 o'clock Wednesday, August 29.

FEATHERED TRIBE OUT FOR VICTORY

Will Field Strong Team Against Sons of Canada for Tomorrow's Game—McDonald to Twirl

With McDonald back on the mound, Len Oliver will lead the Eagles to battle against the Sons of Canada in a Senior Amateur Baseball League game at the Royal Athletic Park tomorrow. The Canadians applied the shutter to the tribe on their last appearance, but Manager Oliver is trotting out a strong team for Monday's game, which, if he guesses correctly, will turn back the Sons of Canada.

Manager Roy Copas, of the Canadians, has not announced his battery for the game, but it is likely that Georgeagan will again take the mound.

FIGHT CARD WILL BE HELD IN WEST FRIDAY EVENING

The Victoria Boxing Club announces that its next promotion will be staged at the Victoria West Club quarters next Friday night, when a five-card bout of events will be staged.

The local fighters chosen by the club to appear on the card are Dave Lewis, the popular local lightweight; Red Beales, lightweight; Tim Keist, 125 pounds; Albie Davies, 118 pounds; and Jumbo Davies, flyweight.

Opponents for the local boys are being secured from Vancouver and Seattle and it is expected that some fine fights will be witnessed.

The local fighters will resume their workouts at the Victoria West Club quarters on Monday night. Any local boxers who wish to appear on the club promotions, are requested to turn out and work out with the local boys.

It is the intention of the club to stage bouts every two weeks from now on.

SAANICH HOLDING 60TH ANNIVERSARY

Important Anniversary to Be Celebrated by Special Fair Attractions in September

An important anniversary will be celebrated by the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society this year when it holds its sixtieth annual exhibition. The event will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 18 and 19, the former to be the formal opening day, the latter "viewers' day." An additional feature of exhibition week will be the annual ball on Friday, September 21, under the auspices of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society.

The prize list this year is exceptionally varied, several new classes having been opened for competition, and unusually handsome prizes being offered. Emphasis, however, is placed on Rule 18, under which the judges are enabled to reserve award in any class which has no worthy exhibit. There are classes for horses (grouped under "agricultural" and "Indian"), cattle, sheep, swine, goats, rabbits, poultry (divided into exhibition and utility classes), grains, grasses, seeds, field roots for stock, potatoes, vegetables, fruits, flowers, jams and jellies, dry goods, and household articles, butter, eggs, bread, boys and girls' work, honey, ladies' work, photographic, school work, and photography, Indian department, etc.

The sports programme this year will be a special feature of the fair, the events to begin at 1 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. The boys and girls' events will be run off first, and after that will take place the picturesque Highland games which make such an attractive feature of the Eastern Canadian exhibitions. The dancing alone will be exceptionally interesting, with the Highland fling, sword dance, the Bean Triubhas, Scotch reel, Irish jig, and sailors' hornpipe. Competitions both for adults and children will be held. Two special prizes are being offered for the best dairy herd; the R. P. Butcher Challenge Cup for the best dairy herd of goats; four challenge cups offered in the rabbit section by Totem Rabbity, the Farnie Rabbity, the Woodbine Rabbity, and Scott & Peden; the fur robe, offered by William Crouch, Saanich Municipality reeve, for the highest poultry points; a similar prize for the highest fruit and a similar prize for the best points in wool exhibits.

The Provincial Board of Health is offering a $5 prize for the best child's school lunch, to be judged according to the quality of the ingredients provided, attractiveness of preparation, etc.

Beach parties have formed the entertainment of the campers on the Sooke beaches. On Thursday evening, following a motor launch ride, a party of twenty-five gathered at the Beach Tea House, Saanich. A bonfire was built and the old-time songs were revived, residents and guests joining. Among the number were Mrs. Munter, of Niagara Falls; Mrs. A. McKenzie, Mrs. Jackson, Miss O'Neill and Miss Davern, of Victoria.

When tide and chilling breeze made the outing no longer enjoyable, all gathered in Mrs. Greenwood's cosy tea-room, where hot buns and tea were served. Mr. Greenwood making an admirable host.

GOLF AND SKITTLES FOUND MUCH ALIKE

Devotee of the Links Has His Eyes Opened in Country Town in Dorset

It is the misfortune of those who play and see much golf, still more so of those doomed to write about it, that they suffer from a certain twist of the mind, and so come to think of other games in terms of golf. The place-kick straight in front of the goal-post is a short putt on the lawn tennis player who misses an easy smash has pitched into the bunker in front of his nose, when "anywhere on the green" would have been good enough. And the same thing happens in the case of a rather more recondite game, skittles, to which I was introduced the other day. Skittles bears in some ways a horrid resemblance to golf.

It chanced that I was in a little country town in Dorset, of which skittles formed apparently the staple industry and the sole amusement. I, alone obscure, was one of a company of eminent persons on an outing; that is to say, they were eminent in another walk of life, but they were not in the least eminent at skittles. All day long I dashed about that lovely country in motor-cars and looked at lovely grey stone manor houses of which they talked in some strange cant language of their own that I could not understand. We saw a bed that Queen Elizabeth had slept in and a pool hidden by black and romantic yew trees that she had bathed in; we saw them all and then, much refreshed by dinner, we fell tempestuously to our game.

Life, as we have often been told, is not all beer and skittles, and perhaps it is as well. Even champagne and skittles might pall in time, but it is a great game played in moderation, and, as I said, it is very like golf. It is, for instance, not nearly so easy as it looks. There are nine pins to hit at a range of only some forty-five feet, with a large, heavy ball. It would seem simple enough to knock them all down in three shots. First we watched the local experts, who played with that indefinitely knowing air, that pleasant touch of swagger that belongs to those "leathered on a golf club." They could do it; they made a score of nine or so every time. We did not.

There is an official called the "sticker-up." He earns his living by the sweat of his brow at the rate of twopenny for three games removing the fallen pins, re-erecting them in due course, and throwing the ball back into the sloping trough down which they come rattling back to the tee. We always asked him what he could count more fallen pins than we could, and the answer came booming back to us from the end of the alley, "Four," or at most "Five." The nines were not for us. He gave us the admirable advice to aim at the middle of the board, and we did aim but we did not go there.

Then—and this was dreadfully like golf—as we began to get the hang of the thing a little better we began also to theorize. We noticed that the local champions followed through more than we did. "Ah," we said, "that's it," but it wasn't. We conceived the luminous notion that we should do better by imparting a slight leg-break to the ball, but, after a brief and flattering success, we only increased our natural hook and missed more widely on the left than before. One of our number discovered that the secret was to stand as far as possible either to the right or the left of the teeing ground, and then aim at the middle, since this demonstrated, on architectural grounds, gave the chance of a maximum of slaughter. Yet the only immediate result was that he scored nothing, which is really a very difficult thing to do, his ball passing three times as by magic down the narrow lanes without so much as brushing a single pin. The most venerable and illustrious of all the party, in private life a famous nicker player, thought that we did not throw hard enough and adopted explosive methods. All he did was to produce on the part of the sticker-up a peculiar and technical gesture indicative of contempt, wherein the right leg is raised high in the air as the errand ball passed him.

There was one who did not, unless I misjudge him, think at all; he did not crouch in an attitude; he merely let the ball drop with a thud and watched it with a very placid interest as it trundled gently towards the goal. None was more successful, indeed none I think so successful, as he was. Was he not exactly like those irritating persons who say that there is nothing to do at golf but to keep the eye on the ball and hit it?

There was one respect in which our game was not like golf as it ought to have been. I am afraid we played a good deal as we played and were not always wholly serious. This was not the way of champions. They played in silence, fierce silence, breaking it only at long intervals with the words, "Good ball," uttered in a tone I cannot reproduce, "baying away," as old Nym might have said, "in pure Dorsetshire." We applauded more, and for far smaller reasons than they did. Still, our standard did grow higher. We had our "moments of glad grace." Even I once cleared the board and got my first "memento of glad grace." It will be an unfading memory. There were two pins left, and with my last shot, a perfect shot that came in slightly from the right—but this is getting far too much like golf; let it suffice to say that we did improve.

I have kept for the last the one respect in which skittles is blessedly unlike golf. When there is but one pin or one straight line of pins left, it is safe to bet that if the player misses at all, he will miss the line. Just think what that means. Here is a game in which the natural shot is a hook, in which it is positively difficult to slice. That is the game for me.—From The London Times' Golf Correspondent.

Artists Guild Travel Bureau Brings Out One Hundred on Special Train

In charge of Mr. H. H. Kaiser and a number of officials of the Artists Guild Travel Bureau, one hundred tourists from Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago arrived in the city from Seattle yesterday. Leaving Chicago last Sunday on a special train provided by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railway, the tourists visited the Wapiti Indian reservation in North Dakota, the copper mines at Butte, Missoula (Mont.), and Mount Rainier, near Seattle.

Two members of the party flew from Seattle to Victoria yesterday morning on the B.C. Airways all-metal plane. When the rest of the party arrived here at 12:45 o'clock, twenty-five went on to Vancouver, where they will sail for Alaska.

The special Milwaukee train which brought the party out to the coast is equipped with a car for dancing, with an electric phonograph made to specifications. Other cars of the train, with rich appointments, provide hotel-like luxury.

Leaving today the tourists will stop at Vancouver, Lake Louise, Banff, Minneapolis and St. Paul, arriving at Chicago about August 18. The Artists Guild Travel Bureau is one of the many United States tourist agencies who realize that the Pacific Northwest offers attractions equalling, if not surpassing, those of California.

Juveniles Play Stop Sign Joke On Police Chief

Chief John Fry yesterday morning was witness to the fact that the youth of Victoria are closely co-operating with the police commission in the observance of arterial highways.

While proceeding up Johnson Street in his car the Chief spied a red stop sign and white line across the road at the intersection of Johnson and Cook Streets.

It was too late to stop, the best that the Chief could do being an emergency halt fifteen feet from the menacing sign. Quizzing his memory he realized that neither Cook nor Johnson Street was an arterial highway.

Close investigation of the line and letters revealed that they were done in white chalk, presumably by some small boys intent on helping the traffic situation.

Last week the Chief came in for a good old-fashioned "bawling out" at the hands of an irate pedestrian. While speeding up one of the quiet side streets he swerved to avoid a boy dashing out of the curb on a bicycle. In doing so he narrowly avoided running down a man crossing the street. In a running flow of invective the pedestrian told the Chief what he thought of him, and not realizing that he was Chief John Fry, took the car number and host.

Norm Forbes Is Big Noise in Capitals' Win Over Courtenay Nine

Star Chucker Heaves Locals to 3-2 Victory in First Game of Play-Offs for Island Baseball Honors, Breezing Sixteen Batters—Allows but Four Hits

Featured by the effective pitching of Norm Forbes, their star twirler, Victoria Capitals defeated Courtenay 3-2 in the first of the three-game play-off series for the Vancouver Island Baseball League championship, played at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday. Seven hundred fans sat in on one of the finest exhibitions seen on the local ball lot for many a day.

Forbes turned in one of the best games of his career, holding the visitors to four scattered hits and sending sixteen batters to the dugout via the strike-out route. The local chucker was particularly effective in the pinches. In the third he breezed Robinson with the cushions loaded, and went one better in the sixth when he struck out two with the bases full. McKee, who shouldered the burden on the mound for the visitors, was nicked for nine safeties while he breezed two.

VISITORS SCORE FIRST
The visitors were the first to break into the score column when they shoved one over in the first of the third on a three-bagger by McKee and an error by Moore. Capitals came right back and went one better than their opponents. Webster singled and went to third on a two-bagger by Cummins. Forbes, the next man to face McKee, crashed out a double, scoring Webster and Cummins.

Courtenay tied the score in the fifth when John Cummins traveled the distance. Cummins was given a walk to first, stole second and came home on a hot single by Dixon.

The winning run crossed the plate in the last of the eighth. Webster was issued a pass, went to second on an error by the chucker, reached third on a single by Norm Forbes and walked over the plate with the much-needed tally when one of McKee's wide hooks hit McKenzie. John Cummins halted the rally of the Capitals when he caught Wachter's fly ball and threw out Forbes, who was making home.

Three men faced Forbes in the first of the ninth, two of which were struck out and the third filed out to McKenzie at short.

FORBES THE HERO
Capitals owe the greater share of the fruits of victory to Norm Forbes. Forbes, in addition to heaving bang-up ball, drove in two runs in the third and came in effectively again in the eighth with a single. Out of three trips to the plate the local hurler connected for

Six Claimants for Heavyweight Crown

THE passing of Gene Tunney as heavyweight champion is a source of genuine regret to all sportsmen and devotees of the boxing game. Making his bow at this time, after a convincing display of his prowess as a fighting champion is but another instance of his abhorrence of anything verging on the tinsel of hero-worship. Tunney could just as well have kept his secret and traveled throughout Europe as "the champion," and received the adulation of the fight crowd. As a champion he would have been met with more recognition than as a retired leader. Just what niche Tunney will occupy in the annals of boxing is a matter for time to decide. There is no doubt that Gene did much to erase the general opinion that he was a "lucky champion" by the easy manner in which he handled Tom Heeney. The photograph shows the retiring champion and the claimants for the heavyweight title. The elimination tournament will start in September in New York with Tex Rickard in charge. The photographs are as follows: 1, Loughran, light-heavyweight champion; 2, Tunney, the retiring champion; 3, Heeney, last challenger; 4, Sharkey, next claimant; 5, Godfrey, colored heavyweight champion; 6, Delaney, Canadian aspirant; 7, Paulino, the Spanish woodchopper.

Athletics' Rally in Ninth Gives Them Game Over Senators—Giants Whitewash Phillies and Continue as Sensation in National League

AMERICAN LEAGUE
BOSTON, Aug. 11.—A ninth inning rally consisting of a triple by Combs, a single by Ruth and a home run by Gehrig's twenty-first homer gave the Yankees three runs here today and a 5-2 victory—which was their third straight—over the Boston Red Sox.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—The Athletics fought a plucky uphill battle today to nose out the Senators for their third straight, staging a two-run rally in the ninth that gave them the game, 3-2.

GRAY WINS FOR BROWNS
CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Sam Gray, St. Louis star, got credit for his eighteenth victory of the year today although he left the game in the eighth when the score was tied at 2-2. The final was St. Louis 4, Chicago 2. Gray allowed but two hits, both by Mottel, up until the seventh, when the Sox tied the score on a single, Kamn's triple and an error.

DETROIT WINS ANOTHER
CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—The Tigers made it two straight over the Indians today by overpowering them 10-4. Sorrell, young Detroit right-hander, held the Indians helpless, while Bayne was the only one of the Cleveland pitchers who showed hitting qualities.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—The Cardinals' leadership in the National League race dwindled to three games today when Sheriff Blake turned the Redbirds back with seven scattered hits and the Cubs took a 5-1 victory.

LUCAZ SHOTS OUT PIRATES
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—Red Lucas shut out Pittsburgh, 10-0, and Cincinnati broke its losing streak of eight games. Lucas permitted only two hits in the first inning and one in the last.

HORNSBY HELPS BATTING AVERAGE

Manager of Boston Braves Gets Pair of Hits as His Team Defeats Brooklyn

Hornsby made a sharp gain over his nearest rival, Paul Waner, in the battle for the Big Six leadership yesterday, advancing two points to .360, while the Pittsburgh star was dropped four notches to .263. Hornsby collected a pair of singles as his team defeated Brooklyn, 4 to 2, while the elder Waner, in company with all of the other Pirates except Adkins, fell under the spell of Red Lucas' pitching at Forbes Park today.

Ruth got a highly useful single at Boston, driving in the ultimate winning run for the Yankees, but his average slumped a point to .328. Cobb remained out of the game, but Frisch and Heilmann got two hits each. The Detroit slugger advanced to .290, his highest figure since the very first days of the season.

TWO JUDGES AND REFEREE TO BE USED IN BOXING

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 11.—The International Amateur Boxing Federation has voted, 14 to 10, to have two judges on opposite sides of the ring in addition to the referee within the square circle in future international contests. It is understood this provision is to be taken in view of criticism of the decisions given in the present Olympic boxing competitions. Under present rules the judges and referee are outside the ring. The United States favored the new ruling, to which Great Britain, Canada and South Africa were opposed.

Talking Today
JOE SEWELL—Evidence to Show Yankees Are Brainy as Well as Brawny.
ALVIN CROWDER—Breaking the Strange Jinx the Athletics Held Over Me in 1927.
JACK FOURNIER—The Greenest Big League Recruit of Them All.

By J. P. GLASS
AFTER the close of a recent series in New York, in which the Yankees beat the Indians five straight games, Joe Sewell, the heavy short-stop of the Indians, took occasion to remark that the members of the Yankee juggernaut have brains as well as skill.

"I've come to the conclusion that it's all wrong to think that the Yankees don't use their heads, as so many people allege who believe the Huggins outfit is merely slugging its way to victory," he said.

"Here's one thing that convinces me. Too often the Yankee fielders are waiting in just the right spot to catch line drives.

"When that happens, only once in a while you can call it luck. But when it is of frequent occurrence you can put it down to good brain-work. The fielders have studied the opposing batmen and have a good idea of where they are going to hit."

"In this last series it happened that the fellow hit line drives repeatedly. But a big proportion of them was caught handily.

"This happened at least ten times in one game. It's all wrong to think that the Yankees are merely slugging their way through good hitting and pitching. Sewell believes that another factor of assistance to the Yankees is their confidence in their own strength. This leaves them unfurled in their decisions, so that they are much more likely to choose the right course than opponents who have no confidence in themselves.

A REAL HOODOO TEAM
Alvin Crowder, recently the centre of discussion as to whether he had lost any games, was a winner merely through good hitting and pitching. Sewell believes that another factor of assistance to the Yankees is their confidence in their own strength. This leaves them unfurled in their decisions, so that they are much more likely to choose the right course than opponents who have no confidence in themselves.

"I remember one afternoon that I had Grove beaten 1 to 0 in the last inning, when I walked Cobb and Cochrane. Fox scored Cobb with the tying run by singling, and then Simmons put the game on ice, 4 to 1, by hitting a home run.

"The first game I pitched against the Athletics this year I won. Early in the game Simmons came to bat with a man on second, and I got him out on an easy chance. That gave me a lot of confidence and I proceeded to stop the Mack crew. I hope I can keep it up."

BROWN WAS WRONG
Jack Fournier, after many years of big league service, now first-basing for Newark in the International League, claims that he was the greatest ball player that ever broke into the big leagues.

"When I first joined the Chicago White Sox, in 1912," cites Jack, "I would go up to bat and hit either a double, a triple or a single, and when the fellows would ask me what kind of ball I had hit—a curve or a fast one—I'd have to admit that I didn't know the difference.

"As a kid I played for the Elmo (Washington) Club, in an exhibition game with the Seattle Club, of the Pacific Northwest League. I made three hits and O. E. Dugdale, the Seattle manager, asked me to come with his club for a week's workout.

"I believe you have possibilities," he said.

"At the end of the week he told me he guessed he couldn't use me. The fact was, I just didn't know anything about baseball.

"I finally landed, after brief experience with several clubs, with Moose Jaw, of the Western Canadian League, where I hit .377 in 109 games. I was the property, however, of the Vancouver Club, of the Pacific Northwest League. I sold me to the Boston Red Sox that Fall. I never reported to Boston, however, for during the winter I was asked on me and I was claimed by Chicago.

"Brown, the Vancouver manager, who sold me to the Red Sox, said to me, 'Well, there's the biggest piece of cheese I ever sold. He'll probably win the Rocky Mountain handicap by going East on a train and coming back on the next.'

"I've done considerable traveling in my time, but I never took the trip predicted by Brown."

U.S. Athletes Nose Out Britishers at Empire Sport Meet

Forty-Five Thousand See Track and Field Events at Stamford Bridge — One World and Two British Records Go By Board

STAMFORD BRIDGE FIELD, LONDON, Aug. 11.—The United States, with the pick of its Olympic track and field talent, barely beat the British Empire's combined forces this afternoon in a meet marked by one world's record and a rapid succession of other sensational performances.

Forty-five thousand spectators, many of whom collapsed from the combined effects of the sun and the broiling sun, witnessed the triumph of the Americans by the narrow margin of eight to six, first places only figuring in the scoring.

The Yankee one-mile relay team registered the most sensational American triumph on the track when a quartette consisting of George Baird, Morgan Taylor, Ray Barbutti and Emerson Spencer covered the distance in 3 mins. 12.2-5 secs., shattering the world's record by 3 secs. The most spectacular individual performance, however, was turned in by Douglas Lowe, famous British middle-distance star and Olympic 800-metre champion, who anchored two winning combinations: first in the two-mile relay and then bringing the meet to a climax in the middle relay with a slashing half-mile in 1 min. 51 secs. This bettered the record half-mile by three-fifths of a second and represented probably the finest 480 ever run, with or without a running start.

TWO MARKS BETTERED

So spectacular were the performances that in two of the fourteen events, all of which were decided on a team basis, times or distances eclipsed those in the similar meet here four years ago. In addition, two British records were broken in the field events when Lee Barnes pole vaulted 13 ft. 9 ins., and Ed Hamm broad jumped 25 ft. 1 in.

Superiority in the field was the only thing which enabled the United States to win. The British won the last five of the eight running events, but captured only one of the six field features, that in javelin throwing, by a slim margin.

The Britons, as it turned out, lost their best chance to win the meet when they were beaten in the 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay, which was more of a tumbling event than a hurdle contest. The four-mile relay developed another thriller in which Cyril Ellis, British anchor man, outran Lloyd Hahn in the stretch sprint to win by a yard after capturing the field in the final time of 4 mins. 14.1-5 secs. Phil Edwards' half in 1 min. 53 secs. gave him fifty yards over his American rival. Earl Fuller clinched the British victory in the two-mile relay and made the final leg a mere romp for Lowe, who was timed at 1 min. 55 3-5 secs. in holding the margin over Ray Watson.

Lord Davy Burghley, tumbling into a water jump like the veriest pebbler novice, anchored the winning British steeplechase relay.

The British won the three-mile team race, although Macaulay Smith, of the United States, finished first. Britain had seventeen points to twenty for the United States, scoring being by the cross-country system, under which the number of places in which runners finish is added to make the team totals. The events won by the British were: Two-mile relay, four-mile relay, javelin throw, steeplechase relay, mile relay race, three-mile team race.

United States wins were the following: Four hundred yards relay, mile relay, 480-yard shuttle hurdle race, shot put, hammer throw, high jump, pole vault, broad jump.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT PROVIDES UPSET

Jack Matson and Ernie Stock Go Under at Hands of Van Fromm and Herb Davey

The defeat of Jack Matson and Ernie Stock in the men's doubles by Van Fromm and Herb Davey provided the only upset in yesterday's play in the Equinall tennis tournament. Play has reached the semi-finals and in some cases the final stages. The final is slated for the new play courts of the Hillcrest Club.

GUN DOG CLUB TO HOLD CONTESTS

Second Annual Open Air Show and Retrieving Competitions Will Be Held September 1

The Victoria and District Gun Dog Club will hold its second annual open air show and retrieving contest on Saturday, September 1. Two important changes have been made in the rules from those of last year, whereas those of last event called for entrants to both show and contest to be actual members of the club. This year both show and contest are open to the world, without restrictions as to membership in the club.

Last year there were three classes in the retrieving contest: Class A for pointers and setters working on land only; class B for retrievers, and class C for sporting spaniels, both to work on land and in water also. This year retrievers and sporting spaniels will work as one class, both on land and in water.

It is hoped and expected that the club will be able to offer even better cash prizes in show and retrieving contest than was possible last year, the first event. In addition to cash prizes there will be trophies and merchandise to be won.

The object of the club is to promote a class of dog which can do the work in the field and show creditably on the bench in competition with pure "show type" dogs. It is particularly pleasing to the members therefore that the Labrador which won the retrieving contest last August had gone best of breed previously in the show, and the English setter which won the all-age stake at the Spring field trials afterwards made a very creditable showing at the Victoria City Kennel Club show.

Rules for the show are identical

HOCKING WINS TENNIS TITLE IN HARD GAME

Local Ace Defeats Gerald Cunningham in Five-Set Match at South Cowichan Tourney

HOPE LEEMING IS LADIES' CHAMPION

DUNCAN, Aug. 11.—Victoria net ace won a major share of the titles in the annual South Cowichan tennis tournament, which concluded today.

"Bud" Hocking, of Victoria, won the singles crown after a bitterly contested five-set match with Gerald Cunningham, of Trail. The Victoria ace took the first set 6-2, but lost the second and third sets by scores of 5-7 and 1-6 respectively. In the fourth Hocking staged a rally, winning 7-5, to make the sets two each. In the deciding set Hocking's better placements and hard drives carried him through to a 6-2 victory.

Miss Hope Leeming, of Victoria, had little difficulty in capturing the ladies' singles championship by disposing of Miss Mona Miller, also of the Capital City, by scores of 6-1, 6-3.

In the mixed doubles final Marjorie Leeming, of Victoria, and Don Campbell defeated Miss Bond and P. L. Kingston in two straight sets, 6-3, 7-5.

Mrs. Mogg and Miss Mona Miller were defeated by Miss Hope Leeming and Mrs. Leeming in the ladies' doubles. The scores were 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

"Bud" Hocking and Gerald Cunningham were extended to four sets before winning the doubles title against Don Campbell and Eric McAllum. The former pair took the first two and the last set.

Complete results follow:

LOTT AND DOEG DOUBLES WINNERS

Defeat Hawkes and Hernden to Take Invitation Tournament—First Set Thirty-Six Games

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y., Aug. 11.—George Lott, Jr., Chicago, and John Doe, Santa Monica, California, defeated John B. Hawkes, of Australia, and Edward Hernden, New York, in the doubles final of the annual invitation tournament at the Meadows Club today. The score was 19-17, 6-4, 6-4.

Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Texas, won the annual invitation singles tournament, defeating Gregory Mangin of Newark, N.J., 6-0, 6-3, 7-5.

The first set of the doubles was one of the longest in tournament history and made up in a multiplicity of errors what it lacked in interest. Hawkes was the individual star with Lott and Doe doing some brilliant work at times, but lapsing into errors.

SCORELESS HOCKEY

Hockey history was created when the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Ottawa Senators played two scoreless seventy-minute games within a five-day period the past season.

MAJOR COBBETT MAKES CENTURY

Former Local Player Stars in British Columbia's Win Over Alberta in Cricket Final

SPARKS ALSO BATS FOR GOOD TOTAL

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11.—British Columbia, by her victory over Alberta today, won the Dingwall Cricket Trophy. The Coast players have won this trophy six times now, four in successive years.

The Western Canada tournament came to a close today when British Columbia beat Alberta by three wickets and 199 runs, while Manitoba, by a plucky effort, drew with Saskatchewan, for the latter had made 155 and the home team had lost six for twenty-one. The game ended with Manitoba having made 128 with two wickets in hand.

A magnificent display by Cobbett, who made 108, not out, featured British Columbia's innings. Their total stood at 288 for seven when the innings was declared. Cobbett gave a chance when he had a made one, but after that he hit freely, making his runs in a little over one hour. He hit three sixes and eleven fours. Ivamy's fifty-five and Sparks' forty-three were the next highest scores. Hodges kept wicket well and Johnson had a wonderful "caught and bowled" to his credit. Alberta at bat could make only eighty-four. They had forty-three for one and then fared badly. Peters, who had battled magnificently all week, captured four wickets for thirty-seven runs and was too much for the Alberta batsmen. Streit with twenty-one and Falck with nineteen, were the principal run-getters.

Adolphe Menjou in New Distinct Mystery Type

Doffs Dress Suit for Uniform of Dashing French Army Captain in "A Night of Mystery"—Showing at Capitol All This Week

Adolphe Menjou, the world's most famous "other man," by virtue of his ability—on the screen—of stealing feminine hearts, plays the part of the dashing Captain Perrot in the French-African Chasseurs in his latest Paramount starring vehicle, "A Night of Mystery," which comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre tomorrow.

Adapted from the stage play, "Captain Perrot," by Sardon, this Menjou production is hailed as one of the most distinctive in which he has ever appeared.

He spurns the love of a married woman for the sweet affection of a single girl; he appears in several scenes as a Sahara desert sheik, riding a camel and wearing tropical headgear and burnous. He sees a man murdered, then voluntarily confesses to the deed in order to save the reputation of the married woman who loves him, at the same time saving the life of the brother of his fiancée.

The story, adapted by Ernest Vajda to the screen, contains many tense scenes and is described as being sheer drama all the way through. Menjou has two leading women in this production. One of the chief roles is played by Evelyn Brent, who appeared opposite Emil Jannings in "The Last Command" and the other is in the hands of Nora Lane, Fred Thomson's lead in "Jesse James" and "Pioneer Scout."

On the stage at the Capitol Theatre for this week the specialties include Robin and Hood, in a novelty fantasy, Betty Fannon, a clever acrobatic dancer, Bruce Hamilton, the well-known American tenor, in song selections, along with the concert orchestra, and Harold Bechtel, the popular M.C., singing "The Tutti Frutti Song."

TWO BRITISH FILMS

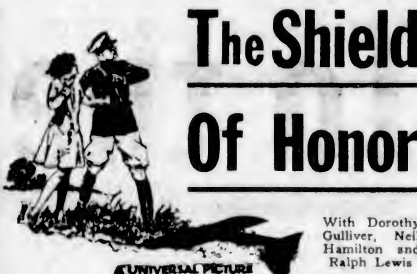

Anthony Asquith's New Film, "Underground," Presented to Trade in London

Two new British films, "Underground" and "Bolivar," have been shown to the trade in London. The story scenario and direction of "Underground" are by Mr. Anthony Asquith. It is described as a "melodrama of modern London," with Mr. Brian Aherne, Miss Kelsa Landi, Miss Norah Baring and Mr. Cyril Maclagan in the cast. "Bolivar" has been produced by Mr. Walter Summers. The film is based on a novel by Mr. Leo Perutz and deals with the period of the Napoleonic Wars in Spain. As the costumes used are similar to those worn in 1810, no fewer than 900 uniforms had to be specially made and sent to Malia, where much of the exterior "shooting" was done.

The less a man knows the more he wants to tell it.

FAKED TORNADO DESTROYED TOWN

Thousands Journey to Banks of Sacramento River to See "Synthetic Holocaust"

When a terrific windstorm levelled a populous town on the banks of the Sacramento River and uprooted trees, blew steamboats and other craft from their moorings, everybody was happy. It was all part of the comedy, "Steamboat Bill, Jr.," in which Buster Keaton and Ernest Torrence star.

The town required several weeks to build and until the day of the "storm" the thriving community enjoyed a peaceful existence. When the hurricane had subsided all that was left of the several acres of buildings was debris. The storm lasted all day. Scores of wind machines and steel cables attached to tractors out of camera's range were the chief instruments of destruction. Buildings toppled into the river as if struck by giant, unseen hand. Clouds of dust were visible for miles round about. Thousands of people journey to the scene of the excitement to witness the synthetic holocaust.

Keaton's made-to-order town in "Steamboat Bill, Jr.," was the most expensive set ever constructed for a comedy and thrill on the screen, and was so complete that there was nothing left to salvage.

ROBEY BRINGS TWO COMPLETE SHOWS

New Play Will Have Premiere on Pacific Coast After Trans-Canada Trip

"When that inimitable English comedian, George Robey, who is reported to be able to make more people laugh than any other ten entertainers in the British Isles, sails for this country to open his first Canadian tour at His Majesty's Theatre in Montreal, on September 3, he will bring with him both "Bits and Pieces," which he opened at the Prince's Theatre last Christmas for a six weeks' stay, remaining six months instead, because of the phenomenal success registered by the production, and "Between Ourselves," his new show, which he has been preparing all the summer.

"Bits and Pieces" will be played all the way from Montreal to the Coast. "Between Ourselves" will be presented all the way back from the Coast to Montreal. As this show has never been performed anywhere before, it will receive its premiere on the Pacific Coast, and will be produced in London for the first time on any English stage in December next, when Mr. Robey returns to England on the conclusion of his tour of the Dominion.

Selections from "Bits and Pieces" have been broadcast by Mr. Robey in England. Apropos of this, he tells a good story about a man who was fixing up his wireless set for the evening, when his little girl asked whom they were going to hear. "George Robey," said her father. "Oh, that's the man with the hat and eyebrows and no face!" replied the child. Mr. Robey is so proud of the description that he has broadcast that as well.

The Modern Way

Gloria Swanson, who in private life is the Marquise de la Falaise, tells the story of how she was once playing in a production in which a girl was supposed to be greatly upset at the unfaithfulness of her lover. Somehow or other she did not strike the right note of tragic bereavement, so the producer tried to coach her in her part.

"Inspire yourself with the situation," said he. "Fancy yourself in the poor woman's place. If you were deserted by a lover whom you adored, what would you do?"

The reply was as unexpected as it was ingenious: "I would look out for another!"

"That's a lot of nonsense about there always being room at the top," "Oh, when were you up there to see?"

DAZZLING DRAMA THROBS WITH LIFE

"Love Me and the World Is Mine" Told on Screen at Coliseum

Dazzling in its atmospheric splendor, throbbing with drama and inspiring with the artistry of direction, "Love Me and the World Is Mine," the Universal production which opens its engagement at the Coliseum Theatre tomorrow, is truly one of the important milestones in motion picture achievements.

All of the promise of "Variety," that great German production released in America a short time ago, is fulfilled in "Love Me and the World Is Mine." The directorial skill of E. A. Dupont was behind them both.

"Variety" was made by Dupont in the UFA Studios in Germany, and "Love Me and the World Is Mine" was made by the same director in Hollywood. With the same resources of the American movie capital, and the assistance of splendid actors and skilled technicians behind him, Dupont has surpassed his first great production.

Mary Philbin, in her role of the pathetic little Austrian girl, Hanne, rises to a performance which is likely to remain in the minds and hearts of her audiences for many a day.

Norman Kerry contributes a particularly fine performance in the leading masculine role, although his part is by its very nature less striking than that of Miss Philbin.

The genius which made her performance in "The Miracle Man" a never-to-be-forgotten thing, is still with Betty Compson, and her portrayal of the Viennese lady of somewhat dubious virtue is a splendid piece of work.

Henry B. Walthall's characterization is finely drawn and he is always completely in possession of the audience's sympathies whenever he is on the screen.

PHOTOGRAPH SOUND

Records Made on Film and Electrified for Transformation Back to Become Audible

A lecture of modern talking films, accompanied by demonstrations, was recently given at the Imperial Institute, London. The occasion was a meeting of the International Photographic Congress. The lecturer, C. F. Elwell, technical adviser to the British Phonofilm, Ltd., described the recording of sounds on films.

AVIATION SHOWN FROM NEW ANGLE

Aeronautics From Bottom Up Presented on Variety's Screen Tomorrow

This photography was first achieved in the basic form of light and shade, sound being photographed as light and dark horizontal lines of varying shades upon a film. These photographic records were eventually electrified by moving the film past a steady beam of light, this beam being converted into a fluctuating one, and then translated into a fluctuating electric current, which in turn is transformed back to sound.

Thus, these narrow film strips of sound can be reproduced by being recorded upon a gramophone. Thus it is quite possible for a blind person to listen to the narration of a complete novel.

George Sidney and Charles Murray never want to see another aviation school as long as they live. The reason is that both comedians went to "school" with a vengeance while making First National's great aviation comedy, "Flying Romeos," coming to the Variety Theatre tomorrow.

Sidney and Murray play a couple of barbers who want to learn aviation. When they arrive at the school they find it in charge of a young man who is a rival of theirs for the hand of a certain young lady. What he does to them when he gets them in all the trick machinery of the school is plenty, and it effectively cures both Murray and Sidney of aviation ambitions for all time.

"Flying Romeos" is a solid laugh from start to finish, and one of the funkiest vehicles that Sidney and Murray have had. It has some unusual twists of plot and plenty of sustained interest and thrills as well as comedy.

"Colleen," Fox Films' latest comedy drama, is also on the same bill. With Madge Bellamy in the stellar role and a cast of screen favorites in the supporting cast, this delightful picture has received the unqualified approval of all who have seen it.

OPERA COMPANY REVIVE RUDDIGORE

D'Oyly Carte Organization to Include Seldom Heard Work in Canadian Programmes

Particular interest is attached to the forthcoming visit of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, in view of the fact that they are reviving "Ruddigore," which has never been presented in Montreal and was only revived in New York a few years ago since the visit of Sir Arthur Sullivan to America. "Ruddigore," though not so well known as others of the famous Gilbert & Sullivan combine, is an opera of remarkable melodic charm, with a plot that fascinates, and airs and choruses that represent the genius of Sullivan and the wit of Gilbert at their prime.

In keeping with their policy of strengthening their roster whenever opportunity offers, the management of the D'Oyly Carte Company will bring to Canada a company which, while retaining all the best features of their organization last seen here, will also number among its personnel several new artists of proved merit.

ADVERTISING VALUE

American Manufacturers Spend 1,500,000,000 in One Year Pushing Goods

The International Advertising Association was told by Mr. Francis H. Blasen, a New York banker, at its convention in Detroit that American manufacturers and merchants spent $1,500,000,000 ($200,000,000) last year in advertising to reduce the prices of its products; a cereal company was able to reduce its cost per package by eighty per cent. and the "Say it with flowers" campaign, supported by 4,500 retail shops, had increased the sale of cut flowers by 400 per cent in seven years.—The Times, London.

Clara Bow Stars Film Feature at Dominion

Little Movie Queen of Flappers Provides Fans With Best of All Interpretations of Thrilling Story of Underworld Gangsters

A great many dramas of the underworld have been flashed upon the screen, but it has taken Clara Bow, queen of the flappers, to give the motion picture public the most stirring of all.

The Paramount star accomplishes this in "Ladies of the Mob," which opens at the Dominion tomorrow—thrilling story of gangsters and their loves, something which is rarely taken into consideration when the police reports are read. It is an entirely different Clara Bow, who throws off the wiles of the flapper and plunges herself into a powerful portrayal of a terror-stricken wife of a gangster. It is by far the heaviest bit of acting Miss Bow has attempted since her work in "Wings," and she proves conclusively that she can handle drama as well as the lighter roles which have made her so popular.

Another interesting thing in the production is the weird photographic effects obtained by Henry Gerard, cameraman, under the direction of William Wellman, youthful director, who made such a tremendous success with "Wings" and "The Legion of the Condemned."

A sound story, thrilling and exciting, well directed and beautifully photographed is "Ladies of the Mob," but, most important of all, it will prove to the motion picture audiences that Miss Bow is not only a dancer—she is a great actress. On the stage at the Dominion Theatre for this week the management are presenting Eddie Williams, popular basso soloist, in song selections, every afternoon and evening. Mr. Williams has a very fine voice and his renditions of standard classics and ballads will be quite a feature on this week's bill.

Tribute to Teuton Soldier Opens Film Story Told in "Dawn"

A British airman has been shot to earth. His plane miraculously straightened out just before it crashed, and the aviator—a youth—escaped, though suffering from a severe head wound from machine gun fire. The lad hid in the woods all night while the enemy hunted him in vain. Many Allied soldiers, cut off from their units, had escaped through mysterious underground channels. The Governor of Brussels was being severely reprimanded for these escapes. Hence the proclamation: "An English airman has been shot down. . . . anyone harboring him will be condemned to death."

The airman blundered finally into a Belgian home on the outskirts of Brussels, and from there—completely muffled—escorted by ambulance to the nursing institute conducted by Edith Cavell. A watching German A.P.M. sees the ambulance draw up, is suspicious and goes straight to the operating room, where Nurse Cavell is about to dress the boy's wounds. He turns down the blanket covering the lad's tunic—there are the wings of the R.F.C. Then the German stuffs, draws himself to his full height, and with a click of the heels turns and walks out of the door. He hesitates—turns back—pauses—then resolutely goes out of the house, and out of Nurse Cavell's life for ever. This tribute to a German is shown in an English film—the picture "Dawn," which has created such world-wide controversy. "Dawn" will be screened at the Coliseum shortly, two shows daily, with an impressive novel prologue and augmented orchestra.

Sugar Growers May Move to Rhodesia

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Aug. 11.—Owing to the demands of the sugar workers in Queensland and the almost unlimited cheap labor available in Rhodesia, several sugar growers in the northern state contemplate moving to South Africa. R. McGuigan, executive of one of the largest Queensland sugar concerns, has returned from a tour of investigation in Rhodesia and favors such a move. As a result of his tour, 40,000 acres of suitable land on the Zambezi River was offered at a nominal figure and a promise was made that if sugar growing and milling were started on an extensive scale, protection would be given by the Rhodesian authorities against the introduction of sugar from the Union of South Africa. Ample Kaffir labor was offered at five dollars a month and a ration of mealies.

Paris recently held a women's balloon "rally."

THRILLING CLIMAX SEEN AT COLUMBIA

Spectacular Airplane Race Ends Gang's Robberies in "The Shield of Honor"

Never have the inside workings of a metropolitan police force been vividly portrayed as in "The Shield of Honor," the picture which commences tomorrow.

Dan McLowery, veteran officer, and his son Jack, who is to be the first flying officer in the force, are being honored at a celebration of the addition of the aviation division to the department. Owen O'Day, daughter of a wealthy jeweler, christens the new plane and Jack immediately becomes interested in her.

Shortly after the celebration O'Day asks Jack to assist him in solving the disappearance of numerous diamonds which his customers have been losing. After much research Jack places suspicion on Robert Chandler, O'Day's business advisor, but evidence is not sufficient to press the charges.

Jack soon discovers that Rose, a stenographer in O'Day's store, and Red, the janitor, are also members of the Chandler gang and when they make a final raid on O'Day's diamonds he corners Chandler with the goods. A thrilling climax with a spectacular airplane race and air fighting follows, furnishing this picture with some of the most melodramatic plots in the history of the aviation division of the law.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCoy

SKIN PARASITES AND ITCHING
Many skin eruptions and itchings are caused by minute microscopic insects which enter and live in the skin. The itch insect is probably the most frequent culprit. It is very small, too small to be seen by the naked eye, but under a favorable light the female, which is a pearly white color, may be seen.

This insect is most frequently found in between the fingers and toes, on the back of the hands, under the arms, on the abdomen and the groins. It lives in a short burrow under the skin, which shows as a faint white line with sometimes little blisters. This appearance is characteristic, but many changes may occur because of the scratching and resultant inflammation and pustular infection which may completely obliterate the burrows.

The treatment is to use warm soapy baths with much scrubbing after which sulphur ointment may be rubbed on the affected areas. The clothing should at the same time be sterilized, baked or fumigated.

Head lice may attack the hair. Their color varies from a light gray to almost black. Their eggs, which are attached to the hair, are usually called nits. This insect causes an eruption and itching of the scalp which may form pustular crusts and scabs. Sometimes the hair becomes matted and matted together by these exuding crusts. In treating this condition, it is usually advisable to cut the hair short and saturate the affected parts in kerosene, which should afterwards be washed off with hot water and soap and a carbolic acid lotion applied. This treatment will usually kill the nits as well as the live lice.

Clothing lice are slightly larger than head lice, and usually attach themselves to the clothing and suck the blood through the skin, causing minute red spots. They are most frequently found on the neck, back, and abdomen, and the arms and legs if they are covered with clothing. This infestation usually produces urticaria, inflammation, scratching, and roughening of the skin. These clothing lice are hard to eradicate, and the clothes should be baked for a long time or thoroughly fumigated, and the individual should use a prolonged warm bath to which bicarbonate of soda is added.

Crab lice are often found in the short hairs of the groins, pubes, under the arms and in the eyebrows. To cure this trouble, the parts should be washed thoroughly with warm water and soap several times daily, followed by a mercurial salve, or iodoform vinegar.

Bedbugs live in cracks and crevices of the walls and bed. They may be killed by fumigating thoroughly with sulphur or cyanide, and scouring with corrosive sublimate or kerosene.

Fleas sometimes infest the clothing, carpets, upholstery, and bedding. It is best to fumigate the premises with cyanide, which can only be done by a professional fumigator. Sometimes the flea will leave of their own accord when animals are kept out of the house. There are several good flea powders and liquid insect sprays on the market which may be used.

Ticks and harvest bugs may be destroyed by application of kerosene, benzene, sulphur salve, or corrosive sublimate solution.

If an insect enters the ear it should be chloroformed and syringed out with warm water or oil.

New Beverage Manufactured From Apples

A firm in Birschoffs, Switzerland, has succeeded in perfecting a process for the manufacture of a concentrated non-alcoholic apple juice, writes Trade Commissioner J. A. Macgillivray, Rotterdam, in the forthcoming issue of The Commercial Intelligence Journal. The principle use of the juice as a beverage, although its employment in the preparation of certain goods is also suggested.

By a low-temperature process the juice is removed from the apple which is reduced to one-seventh of its ordinary weight and bulk and to one-twelfth of the weight of the whole fruit. In the course of the manufacture, it is stated that only the water and the indigestible fibre material are removed from the fruit and all the valuable ingredients and properties of the fresh apple are retained unchanged. Experiments were begun with a view to making use of the poorer grades of apples, which are ordinarily of but little commercial value.

The cost of manufacturing on a mass production is about half a cent per kilo of apples, and the finished product retails at from fifty-eight cents per kilo when sold in bulk to thirty-seven cents in half-kilo bottles. Demand is said to be in excess of supply, and the product is already being exported to a number of countries.

Mr. Harrison Watson, Canadian Trade Commissioner, London, writes that at the moment there is a general agitation in that country from important sources for a general extension of the safeguarding of industries policy to the adoption of a scientific tariff on manufactured goods. The conditions called for by the act as at present framed are so stringent that comparatively few applications have been successful. The number of cases where a duty has been adopted is actually nine.

The First Commissioner of Works, in reply to a question in the House of Commons, stated at some length the case of the Government in their favor. The following industries, he claimed, had been directly benefited by the imposition of safeguarding duties: Enamelled hollow ware; buttons; tableware and translucent pottery; leather and fabric gloves; packing and wrapping paper; scientific instruments, including magnetos and aeroplane dopes; rubber tires; motor cars; and musical instruments.

The number of insured workpeople in the industries affected was 191,000 in 1925 and 215,000 in 1926, an increase of nearly thirteen per cent, and employment in many of the districts affected by the duties has shown a substantial improvement.

The decision of certain foreign manufacturers to establish factories, as a result of the safeguarding duties, has also absorbed a considerable number of British workers. Imports in general are less than in pre-war days, and in certain cases there has been a steady increase in the export trade.

George Young, not only Canadian with good chance to capture world title.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 11.—Judging from the records of Canadians already entered, Canada has an excellent chance of capturing the third Wrigley Marathon to be held on September 3 at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Even if George Young, of Toronto, is in the form he showed when winning the Catalina Channel swim, he is going to find it difficult not only to take first place in the men's race, but to lead the Canadian competitors, for there are many Canadian "dark horses" entered.

CANADA STRONG IN COMING SWIMS

George Young, not only Canadian with good chance to capture world title.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 11.—Judging from the records of Canadians already entered, Canada has an excellent chance of capturing the third Wrigley Marathon to be held on September 3 at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Even if George Young, of Toronto, is in the form he showed when winning the Catalina Channel swim, he is going to find it difficult not only to take first place in the men's race, but to lead the Canadian competitors, for there are many Canadian "dark horses" entered.

George, however, after the flurry which for a time seriously threatened his aquatic career, is down to hard work, and though he has not yet officially entered the race, hopes to be at the starting point in as fine physical condition as he has ever reached for an important race.

PROMINENT CONTENTERS
Of the other better known Canadian contenders, Mendell Burditt, of Toronto, the last Canadian in the water in last year's race, and whom Ernst Vierkotter considers a strong contender, is the most prominent. John O'Halloran, of Barrie, is another of last year's unknowns to be considered seriously this year. There are probably twenty-five Toronto swimmers with past records of varying importance all hard at work for the coming battle, among them Joe Wilson, one of the most brilliant swimmers the Dominion ever produced and the only Canadian to challenge for the King's Cup, outstanding award in the gift of the Royal Life Saving Society. Wilson was almost world famous some years ago and was considered unbeatable in America at his best.

Donald Booth, of Newtonbrook, Ont., winner of the Toronto Central Y.M.C.A.'s elapsed-time Marathon, which extended over more than a week, is turning professional for the exhibition grind this year.

So far one of the most impressive swimmers among the remaining Canadians is Meyer Mendelsohn, of Montreal, who was second in the Lake George Marathon in 1927. Quebec, in fact, is sending a strong contingent of aquatic experts to Toronto, including a trio of French-Canadian swimmers, and an English Marathoner, John Warden, now living in Grand Mere. The French-Canadians entered so far include Romeo Guirouard, of Paris.

Midland has Louis Gannetto; Port Colborne, Izador Sponder; Windsor, John Wren and Donald McCarty; Hamilton, Billy Dave, an English athlete; Picton, Thomas Robinson, only farmer in the race; Mimico, Harold Douglas; St. Catharines, Fred Scott, and Chatham, Bruce Bradley. From Walkerville comes a young mechanic, Lloyd Francis, who has been giving sensational performances in trial swims of ten and fifteen miles.

For the ten-mile women's event there are already three strong Canadian competitors, exclusive of the big Toronto contingent. Daisy Shaw, of Shawinigan Falls, claimant of the Canadian professional title for women, will swim for Port Hope, her native town. Helen Garland, of Ottawa, and Pauline Schaeffer, of Kincardine, are other strong entrants. Edith Heden, of Toronto, dubbed the "sweetheart of the swim" in 1927, and the only Canadian prize winner, will be a certain starter, though her entry form has not yet been filed.

Ottawa; Floriant Aubin, Montreal; A. C. Beaudin, New Liskeard; Robert Laroche, Quebec, and Albert Labrecque, Quebec, Quebec City is also sending John Schulman.

REGARDED AS DANGEROUS
The new Liskeard star is a dangerous contender for the honors. He has won several Northern Ontario Marathons by long leads, but will have stiff opposition from his own section of the Dominion with Fred G. Crowe, of Port William, Jack Yohn, of Cache Bay; George E. Fielding, of Copper Cliff, and who has yet to be beaten, it is reported, at the head of the lakes.

A large number of other Canadian towns and cities are also represented, though the only Western Canada swimmer entered at the moment is John Swaythe, of Saskatoon, Sask.

'DAWN' SHOWS AT DUNCAN CAPITOL

Famous Nurse Cavell Film Opens at Up-Island Cinema Tomorrow

"Dawn" makes its first appearance at the Capitol Theatre, Duncan, tomorrow, and the enterprise of the management in securing this, the great screen attraction of the year, for a first showing in Western Canada, should be rewarded by capacity houses. The film is a work of art, and we can see nothing in it that could offend any nation's susceptibilities. The subject has been most fairly and reverently treated, and the unselfish devotion to those in distress of the chief figure, Nurse Cavell, is an inspiration to all. Far from being a diatribe against the Germans, it is more an indictment of the cruelties of war. Every man, woman and child should see it and feel the better for it.

Fire at Ladysmith

LADYSMITH, Aug. 11.—The Ladysmith fire department responded promptly to a call on Friday morning and extinguished a fire on the roof of the residence of Mr. A. B. B. on the Victoria Road. Fortunately little damage was done, credit being due to the local brigade, which was on the scene in record time with the chemical engine and prevented what otherwise would have been a most serious fire. Other property also was in great danger, at this season of the year when all is extremely dry after the heat of the past month.

Fire at Nanaimo

NANAIMO, Aug. 11.—The residence of Mr. James Gordon, Macleay Street, was badly damaged by fire yesterday morning shortly before 5 o'clock. Although the department made a quick response, the flames had gained considerable headway before their arrival, and most of the furniture was destroyed. The house was unoccupied at the time, the family being away in Vancouver.

Accidental Death

COURTENAY, Aug. 11.—At the coroner's inquest on the body of Percy Anderson, killed at Headquarters on Thursday while working for the Comox Logging Company, a jury composed of Messrs. G. T. Corfield (foreman), John Mitchell, John Stewart, A. O. Fors, D. T. Steel and M. Stewart, returned a verdict of accidental death with no blame attaching to anyone.

Died at Ladysmith

NANAIMO, Aug. 11.—The death occurred in the Ladysmith Hospital at an early hour yesterday afternoon of John Baptiste Verurk, aged fifty years, a native of Belgium, and for the past few years a resident of Courtenay. He had resided in the province for the past thirty-five years.

Arrangements Made For Entertainment Of Warships' Crews

COURTENAY, Aug. 11.—A joint meeting of the council of the Courtenay-Comox Board of Trade and members of the City Council was held in the City Hall on Friday evening, when the matter of entertainment for the forthcoming visit of the three warships, H.M.S. Despatch, H.M.S. Durban and H.M.C.S. Vancouver to Comox Harbor, was discussed. Committees were appointed for the entertainment of the crews and for the coordination of events.

Nanaimo Saxophone Quartette Wins First Prize at Exhibition

NANAIMO, Aug. 11.—The Nanaimo Saxophone Quartette, consisting of Fred Bramley, Fred Cave, James Carson and Jack Bell, was awarded first prize at the Pacific Exhibition yesterday. The adjudicator highly praised the excellent performance of the test piece. In the evening in the vocal duet contest by boys, Lloyd Matthews and A. J. Renny, of Nanaimo, won first prize, while in the contest for boys under fifteen, Lawrence Matthews, of Nanaimo, was awarded second prize.

LANGFORD, Aug. 11.—The fifth Winona junior road race was run last night. The competitors finished in the following order: One-mile race for entrants under twelve—Dean Johnston, Tom Dixon, Oswald Hincks, Rex Jackson. Sixteen-mile race for entrants under sixteen—Clifford Vickery, Gong Quan, Allan Jackson.

Died at Sooke

SOOKE, Aug. 11.—The death of Mr. Charles N. Crawford occurred at an early hour Friday morning at his residence on Maple Avenue. The deceased was seventy-nine years of age and was born in Dunville, Ontario. He leaves, besides his widow, two sons, D. Lindsay, at home, and C. Bevan, and one daughter, Mrs. G. E. Goodall, of Edmonton, one sister, Mrs. Dr. Miller, of Chicago, and five grandchildren. Funeral service will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the graveside. Interment will take place in the Muir's family cemetery.

POPULAR NUMBERS INCLUDED IN BAND PROGRAMME TODAY

The Canadian Scottish Band, under the baton of Bandmaster James M. Miller, will render a very popular concert in Beacon Hill Park this afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock. Opening with a bright and spirited march, "Spirit of Peace," the programme will include such popular numbers as "The Firefly," "The Ghost of the Warrior," "Three Dances from the Music of Henry VIII," and conclude with the old English favorite, "Rounds From England."

Scotland plans to prohibit the use of preservatives in foods.

The last door—every footfall nearer death! Edith Cavell being escorted to face the firing squad, as depicted in "Dawn," coming to the Coliseum shortly.

MOZART'S TOWN STIRS INTEREST

Salzburg a Small University Community With Ecclesiastical Impress

There are still left in Europe one of two towns that remind one of the lines: The Prince-Bishop muttered a curse and a prayer. Which his double capacity hit to a nicety: His princely, or lay, half induced him to swear that his episcopal adviser said "Benedicite."

Trent, whose princely-episcopal castle cannot have been unknown to the author of the "Ingoldsby Legends," is one of these, and another, emphatically, is Salzburg. If in Trent there seems to have prevailed, notwithstanding its conciliar associations, the lay qualities of its ruling porpoise, in Salzburg, at the first glance, it is otherwise. Salzburg looks what she is, a small university town with a strong ecclesiastical impress.

Her public buildings—and they appear to outnumber the others—display prominently in pink or brown marble the arms of their several archiepiscopal founders; her churches are numerous enough for a town three times her size; while the last, but not the least, attraction of the late Queen of the Two Sicilies, the only surviving consort of a ruler of the Italian States which appeared with the unification of Italy.

Salzburg's dominant architectural notes are Gothic and baroque. The Austrian domestic baroque exhibits the style in its most attractive manifestation; and the two principal forms of entertainment she has been offering to her visitors since the days of the late Queen of the Two Sicilies, the only surviving consort of a ruler of the Italian States which appeared with the unification of Italy.

PRIMO DE RIVERA A TRUE SPANIARD

True to Type in His Desire to Save His Country by Becoming Her Ruler

In Spain the man is the main element in politics, and if this be true in normal times it applies with particular strength to a dictatorship. No intelligible account can be rendered of the present state of Spanish politics without a close examination of the man at the helm.

When, on September 13, 1923, General Primo de Rivera started on his career as a dictator, he announced that he would have done in three months. He is still in office, and out of one of those charming "declarations" which contribute not a little to making his rule lighter, he has been good enough to assure the nation that he means to govern yet for several "periods of five years" (a favorite unit of time with him). Yet he was wholly sincere in the nation that he means to govern yet for several "periods of five years" (a favorite unit of time with him). Yet he was wholly sincere in the nation that he means to govern yet for several "periods of five years" (a favorite unit of time with him).

The title itself is sincere. It has been said that Spain—to not a little confusion, due to the tendency to associate the present Spanish regime with Fascism. Unfriendly words, it is perhaps more than Italian, coined a quip to celebrate the general's visit to Rome: "Primo de Rivera ma secondo di Mussolini." A mere quip. Though Fascism did stimulate him to "cut through the middle street," as the Spanish saying goes, General Primo de Rivera is second to no one in his devotion to the true Spanish tradition. The ambition of every Spanish general is to save his country by becoming her ruler.

SIMPLE METHODS This ambition is not limited to such Spaniards as happen to be generals. It is, on the contrary, the nation that he means to govern yet for several "periods of five years" (a favorite unit of time with him). Yet he was wholly sincere in the nation that he means to govern yet for several "periods of five years" (a favorite unit of time with him). Yet he was wholly sincere in the nation that he means to govern yet for several "periods of five years" (a favorite unit of time with him).

He is a truly representative man, representing the mass enough of the people to recognize themselves in him, but rising above them sufficiently to carry the burden of representation. He is spontaneous, instinctive, unimpaired by all delay, imaginative, intensely patriotic, apt to take simple views of things, to cut Gordian knots, to solve intricate problems with Arcadian simplicity, to judge in equity and to think in common sense, to act, think, and to feel only from his own point of view.

Above these features, which stamp him one of the many, there are qualities which make him one above the mass. First, his courage, both physical and moral, a courage that he has wronged—the last, a difficult kind of generosity, which irony without humor seems unable to understand. His is not only the right place, but it beats in harmony with his sense. An Andalusian, he is shrewd and, as the saying goes, fine. Some of his master strokes have elicited the unwilling admiration of many an "old gang" artist driven by him to unemployment.

Thus, when, as a punishment for his alleged connivance in a plot to upset the Government, he fined Count Romanones five hundred thousand pesetas, he knew he would have with him all the Spaniards who can see a capital joke, and there are enough of them to make a man popular.

His generosity is a positive agent in the disarming sincerity with which he can alter his views. His appearance on the political stage as the knight who was to rescue the nation from the clutches of the old regime Malandrines is in itself a startling change, for no more typical representative of the old system could perhaps have been found in the field of Spanish politics than General Primo de Rivera. The Spaniards people do not feel that incurable horror of sin in others which afflicts some races, so the General's enemies have wasted their time in recalling through the chinks of the censorship, that this condenser of nepotism in ones his exceptionally rapid military career not to military talents—which he undoubtedly has—but to the fact that he happened to be the nephew of Marshal Primo de Rivera, one of the political generals of the Restoration. That weakness in his history makes him more human, more representative, and even his enemies are convinced in his appeal for a change of heart. His was the first heart to change.

THE CENSORSHIP Naturally the first thing he did was to impose a strict censorship. This was no doubt a political necessity at the time. But experience has shown that it corresponded to a somewhat deeper psychological necessity, for in fact the ultra-individualistic type of politician, which the General incarnates in common with the politico de café which is the normal type from which it springs, demands complete freedom from criticism for the development of its views. Since 1923 political discussion in Spain has taken the form of a monologue, and while the censor deals severely with every diverging expression of opinion, the Dictator is always ready to explain his views, both in speeches and in official notes which he dictates to the Press. What he has to say is always interesting, to the point, topical, and with an inimitable human touch, a flavor of his own, more authentic than a signature. This way of keeping in touch with public opinion becomes a kind of fatherly homily, full of advice to the good and of stern warning to the bad. His Government is far more personal than Signor Mussolini's. The Dictator is a duce. He incarnates, if not a new abstract political philosophy, at least a new political spirit which counts as an objective, unifying and systematic force giving, so to say, style to all that is done under his leadership. Not so in Spain. The ministers who surround the Dictator are as dissimilar as men can be. Nor can they ever be sure that their favorite theories or schemes will pass muster when they come before their unaccountable chief. General Primo de Rivera works by instinct and inspiration.

FALL OF GREAT GLACIER FEARED

Residents of Kandersteg, in Bernese Oberland, Note Signs Preceding Last Break

The Aletsch Glacier, near Kandersteg, in the Bernese Oberland, is causing uneasiness by its rapid advance, and fears are expressed that part of it may break away and fall as a huge and destructive ice avalanche upon the pastures below.

The advancing glacier is situated high on the steep west face of the Aletsch, a peak 12,000 feet high, overlooking the well-known tourist high-alpine resort of the Spittelmaier Alp. The glacier is well out of harm's way, and only the Gemmi path and the large and fertile grazing grounds of the Spittelmaier Alp are threatened. The alp has been abandoned by order of the Swiss authorities, who are watching and measuring the advance of the glacier at frequent intervals.

Little was actually seen of this, but the banks of the Schwarzenbach, a mile away, were awakened early on the morning of September 11 by a terrific roar like an earthquake and a sudden blast of wind. The servant of the inn rushing out saw what seemed to be a white mist rushing down the mountain side. An enormous mass of ice, estimated to weigh nearly 5,000,000 tons, had broken away from the upper part of the mountain and, after rushing down a slope of 100 degrees, was hurled across the valley and 1,500 feet up the Ushenich Grati opposite. The blast of this avalanche hurled men, chalets, and cattle through the air like leaves, and completely flattened the forest of Arvenwald. It is estimated that the material which fell would have sufficed to bury the whole of Hyde Park and Kensington Gardens to a depth of six and a half feet, and this mass was hurled through the air at a speed of some 300 miles an hour.

The avalanche was undoubtedly due to the advance of the glacier, combined with a hot summer and the consequent detachment of the ice from its parent rock.

In company with two friends, I recently paid a visit to the Aletsch in order to investigate thoroughly the recent reports of danger. We climbed to the edge of the dangerous glacier tongue. The mountain side is steep here. The average angle being about thirty-five degrees, and its slabby nature is responsible for the insecurity of the ice resting upon it. The glacier ends in a gleaming wall of blue ice 200 feet high, and it needed no imagination to picture the resistless force with which this may crash at any moment through a mile of vertical height.

Leaf Scorch of Fruit Trees Is Investigated

Fruit trees grown on certain soils and in some places are apt to prove disappointing. The leaves, instead of being the proper glossy green, take on various colors ranging from red to purple, and dry and shrivel somewhat—especially at the edges. In advanced cases the edges, for a depth of one-eighth to one-quarter of an inch, completely shrivel up as if scorched by fire, and the trouble is therefore known as leaf scorch. Apples, gooseberries, currants, raspberries, and strawberries are susceptible to this trouble—gooseberries being perhaps the most resistant. Bramley Seedlings are comparatively resistant, while Grenadier, Beauty of Bath, James Grieve, Cox's Orange Pippin, and Lane's Prince Albert appear to be very susceptible. Victoria plums are comparatively resistant, while Purple Pershore are easily affected. Of the black currant, Seabrook's Black seems to be much less susceptible than Baldwin or Victoria.

Symptoms of the leaf-scorch have been known for a very long time, but, as no one was able to find any fungus, insect, or bacterial pest that might be held responsible for causing the damage, growers were at a loss to know what to do with affected trees or how to prevent others from becoming scorched. The problem needed research, and this has been carried out by Mr. Wallace at the horticultural research station of the University of Bristol, Long Ashton, Somerset. Very many ex-

LECTURES BY GRAMOPHONE

The idea of making gramophone records of lectures by well-known educationalists has been put into practice during the past month by the International Education Society, with the help of the Columbia Graphophone Company. The first series of records represents a group of lectures, for at least two of the lectures are sufficiently popular in style to attract others besides schoolmasters in search of auxiliary material for the classroom. The Shakespearean lecture of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, for example, is really a recital, and uncommon enough to be worth collecting in these days of the old actor's retirement. The deep resonance of his voice appears perfectly, and it is generally unnecessary to strain to catch even an unfamiliar word. Most of the extracts are short. They are strung loosely together on the thesis of Shakespeare's own ideas, expressed in a way that is both expert and catches even an unfamiliar word. Most of the extracts are short. REALTORS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED CARMICHAEL ARE HOSTS TO REAL ESTATE MEN

Members of Board Discover New Scenic Wonder—Sports Area, Held at Sasaroon

Victoria realtors were of the impression that they had seen and heard of all the scenic charms of Victoria, but a revelation awaited them yesterday on their arrival at Mr. Alfred Carmichael's Summer home at Sasaroon.

The Victoria Real Estate Board held a picnic at Sasaroon yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael were hosts to the gathering. The hospitality of the hosts, the congenial surroundings and, above all, the scenic wonder of the Sooke Arm made the day a big success.

There was not a member present who did not envy Mr. Carmichael's log cabin. It is a work of art. The interior is hung with Indian implements, grass-work and rugs. While waiting for others to come, the early arrivals sat around a log fire in the big stone fireplace in the cabin and spun yarn.

Later on in the afternoon a sports programme was run off. The results of the sports are as follows: Swimming—Fifty yards, open—1. B. Carmichael; 2. A. Davies; 3. J. Davies. Fifty yards, breast stroke, open—1. B. Carmichael; 2. A. Davies; 3. Miss Carmichael. Fifty yards, breast stroke, children—1. Miss M. Davies; 2. D. Angus. Real-estate's race, handicap, fifty yards and over—1. F. Landsberg; 2. A. Carmichael. Stenographers' race, fifty yards—1. Miss Impey; 2. Miss Pressey. Fifty yards, breast stroke, children—1. Miss M. Davies; 2. D. Angus. Log-rolling—1. A. Carmichael; 2. Miss Carmichael; 3. J. Davies.

Diving, open—1. B. Carmichael; 2. A. Davies; 3. J. Davies. Flat races, etc.—Men's 100-metre, open—1. H. Goad; 2. B. Carmichael; 3. W. H. Davies. Back race, boys—1. A. Davies; 2. D. Angus; 3. P. Carmichael. Stenographers' race, open—1. Miss Impey; 2. Miss Pressey. Real-estate's wives, 50-metre, open—1. Mrs. W. H. Davies; 2. Mrs. A. Carmichael. Boys', 100-metre—1. D. Angus; 2. J. Davies; 3. P. Merchant. Girls', 50-metre—1. M. Davies; 2. P. Carmichael.

Tug-of-war—Employers vs. Employees—A team captained by Mr. A. Carmichael won from that captained by Mr. Hubert Lethaby, after two very strenuous pulls.

Quilt throwing proved very entertaining during the afternoon, as well as other such sports. Dancing took place in the evening.

A tree, given by Mrs. Lavy, was planted by the two young real-estate members at the gathering—H. M. Davies and Master P. Merchant.

Power Off but Midnight Fire "Lights Up City"

ELLENBURG, Wash., Aug. 11.—Fire from an explosion in the grain and hay warehouse of the Comstock Arrison Company, in ten minutes early today was burning over a length of more than two city blocks in the warehouse district adjoining the Northern Pacific tracks, causing a loss estimated at approximately $250,000, which is only partially covered by insurance. The cause of the explosion was undetermined.

Switch engines puffed in and out of the burning area, grabbing out coal gondolas, loaded freight cars and a long string of cabooses, but were unable to save eight box cars filled with hay, wheat and straw.

Electric light and power was cut off for an hour, but the city was lighted almost as if by day from the blaze. Railroad locomotives, the Northern Pacific shops, and mills, sounded an alarm, sirens blew and fire bells rang until the whole city and farmers from miles around were aroused.

Smyrna Fig Tree Is Bearing Fruit

Fig trees that bear fruit are very rare in Victoria, but Mr. A. J. Morley, who was mayor of Victoria for five years in succession, has a tree that will give at least ten pounds of figs with the first crop and probably three times that amount with the second crop, which is already coming along.

It is a Smyrna fig tree and the fruit is very delicious. Mr. Morley also has a Japanese persimmon tree, which he has grown from a seed. The tree is expected to bear fruit next year.

Mr. Morley, who resides on Montrose Street, near Smith's reservoir, has a beautiful garden, and takes great pride in its layout. Many people admire the grounds as they walk to the reservoir.

More Self-Government For India Requested by Commerce Chambers

BOMBAY, Aug. 11.—The Associated Chambers of Commerce, which claim to represent £1,000,000,000 of British capital, invested in India, yesterday made a strong move in favor of self-government for India. They addressed a memorandum to the Simon Commission, which is making a political survey of India, recommending that in order that there may be no ground for the suspicion that Britain has failed to honor her pledges, self-government should be given more than a fair trial.

The chambers therefore recommend that provinces be granted constitutions varying up to full and responsible autonomy, although under certain safeguards.

The safeguards proposed would enable the central government to intervene in event of the breakdown of the government in any province.

Princeton Sentences

PRINCETON, Aug. 11.—Found guilty by Judge Swanson, Robert Wilson was given three years in the penitentiary for the P. Burns Co. safe-breaking here on July 9. For breaking jail on July 28 he was given an additional twelve months with hard labor, the sentences to run concurrently. Robert Faber, Wilson's alleged accomplice, was given two years on the safe-cracking charge.
